EGYPTIAN DEAD IN RAID (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Egypt Gets Warning -- Expect Heavier Blows

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned Egypt Tuesday night to expect "even heavier strikes" than the raid across the Gulf of Suez earlier in the day in which Israel reported killing 100 to 150 Egyptians.
The Israeli war hero said the amphibious raid by Israeli infantry and tank forces was "one of the most daring" since the six-day war of June 1967. He said the Israeli troops displayed "an operational ability almost unprecedented in military history."
Diplomatic sources in Cairo said President Gamal Abdel Nasser certainly would order revenge raids, possibly in the form of the first Egyptian air strikes into Israel since July of last year. Such raids would challenge an Israeli air force recently bolstered by U. S. Phantom jets.
The United Press International reported Israeli planes returned today to the scene of Tuesday's raid on Egypt and bombed and strafed Egyptian army vehicles and troops. A spokesman in Tel Aviv said the air raid was in answer to "further Egyptian cease-fire violations along the Suez Canal this morning."
Israel said the commando force crossed the Gulf of Suez about 2 a.m. and landed near El Hasayer, about 28 miles south of the Suez Canal.
The force moved southward for 30 miles and met little or no resistance as it "attacked guard posts, army camps, radar stations, military vehicles and military encampments," an Israeli spokesman said. Then the commandos and their vehicles were picked up and returned across the gulf to Sinai Desert posts which Israel seized from Egypt in the 1967 war.
Israeli officers said the ground troops were backed up by warplanes that struck scores of military targets and delivered a "devastating attack" on a big anti-aircraft missile battery at El Hasayer.
Israel said one Israeli plane was shot down over the gulf, its pilot was missing and only one Israeli foot soldier was injured. Egypt claimed its forces downed three Israeli planes, sank two torpedo boats and inflicted heavy casualties. The Israelis were "forced to turn tail" after suffering heavy losses of men and equipment, Cairo Radio said.
Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said in a broadcast that the raid was "meant to strike at the bases and concentrations of the Egyptian army which have served as a base for commando units laying mines and launching attacks against Israeli planes."
A senior member of the Israeli general staff told a news conference that 2,000 to 3,000 Egyptian troops were in the El Hasayer area. He did not reveal the size of the Israeli attack force.
The officer said many Egyptian soldiers fled rather than fight, but he had no estimate of the number of Egyptians wounded.
Asked whether the Israeli air force had used any of the Phantom F4 fighter-bombers it recently acquired from the United States, he replied: "All kinds of planes were used." But Lt. Gen. Mordechai Hod, the chief of air force operations, said later that all types of aircraft "except for the Phantoms" were used.
Egypt's ambassador to Britain, Ahmed Hassan el-Feki, had charged that the raid was an act of escalation which directly resulted from the delivery of the Phantoms. The United States has sold Israel 50 of the planes, and the first shipment arrived Saturday.

Israeli Raid Witness -- 'All Hell Broke Loose'

TEL AVIV (AP) — "One of the first vehicles we encountered after our tank force left the beach was a truck loaded with cotton—a single shot turned it into a blazing pyre," wrote the only newsman taken along on Israel's strike into Egypt Tuesday.
"All hell broke loose," Eli Landau of the newspaper Maariv continued. "The tanks were firing away at all targets and the road we were following was lined on both sides with burning vehicles of all descriptions, destroyed buildings and shot-up positions."
"By daylight we found ourselves traveling on a broad road under a cliff overhang rising 60 to 70 yards above us."
"That first stretch was a pretty tense time for us. We never knew what we might meet beyond the next rise or twist in the road."
"But a good many vehicles that came our way must have mistaken us for somebody else. They even made way for us, edging over onto the road margins. They made rather good targets."
"The units forged ahead, blowing up segments of the road behind them."
"There was increasing opposition as the units approached their main target areas at Ras Abu Dareg and Ras Za'Fna, in the southernmost part of the armored column's sweep."
"They demolished 12 guard-houses en route. Of these, eight were manned and put up opposition."
"At one stage, three Egyptian armored troop carriers confronted the fast-advancing columns but fled as soon as the first Israeli shot came whistling over."
"Other Egyptians took refuge in the low hillocks overlooking the road and peppered the convoy."
"Grenades and satchels of explosives were tossed into Egyptian positions along the road as the column rolled forward."
"At Ras Abu Dareg, the Egyptians had positioned an anti-tank gun atop a lighthouse."
"The most stupid positioning of an anti-tank gun that I ever saw," said the commander of our task force.
"The naval radar unit, the lighthouse, four concrete structures and 30 gun emplacements were all blown up here. At least 20 Egyptians were killed in the fighting at this place."
"But we didn't check the house and structures we shot at, and there must have been many more dead, the task force commander added."
"All the time the tanks kept shooting like mad. The Egyptians did not have time to deploy their heavy weapons and shot back mainly with machine guns and light automatic weapons."
A senior member of the Israeli general staff told a news conference that 2,000 to 3,000 Egyptian troops were in the El Hasayer area. He did not reveal the size of the Israeli attack force.
The officer said many Egyptian soldiers fled rather than fight, but he had no estimate of the number of Egyptians wounded.

Love of Flying Ends in Tragedy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Robert Carey was in the Air Force during the Korean War, but not as a pilot. Now he was taking flying lessons so he could show his wife and six children the world from the air and why he loved to fly.
Tuesday, Carey, 34, climbed into a Piper Cherokee and lifted the small craft from a runway east of here on a solo flight. Carey was only 10 hours flight time away from obtaining his private pilot's license.
As he climbed eastward, the control tower at Indianapolis Weir-Cook Municipal Airport gave instructions to an Allegheny Airlines DC9 jetliner with 82 persons aboard:
"Descend from 6,000 feet to 2,500 feet on the approach from the east." They didn't even spot Carey's plane by radar.
Carey's plane crashed into, or was struck by, the tail of the larger airplane. The jetliner's tail came off and bodies were flung from the rear as the two planes crashed into a soybean field 15 miles southeast of Indianapolis.
The tragedy could have been worse. The pilot of the jetliner, apparently fought his plummeting, $5.5 million craft away from a trailer camp and into the open field about 15 miles southeast of Indianapolis.
Jet fuel sloshed into the trailer camp as flaming wreckage sailed through the air. There was no explosion or fire, and no injuries in the trailer camp.
The collision was being investigated today by Federal Aviation Administration authorities, who said they recovered both the airliner's flight recorder and cockpit voice recorder, both in working order. It was the third fatal crash of an Allegheny plane in less than nine months. In December and January, a total of 31 persons were killed in two crashes, both at Bradford, Pa.
Tuesday, Flight 853 originated in Boston and stopped at Baltimore and Cincinnati before its planned stop at Indianapolis. The flight was to terminate at St. Louis, Mo. The plane carried 76 passengers, two Allegheny employees and a crew of four. About 50 of the passengers boarded at Cincinnati.
The sky was clear. Flight 853 had just received landing instructions from Weir-Cook. "We had no other targets on our radar, only Allegheny 853," a tower control spokesman said. "It simply disappeared after descent started."
An FAA spokesman said "ground clutter" frequently blots small craft from radar, "particularly when they are flying below 2,500 feet." Carey took off from the Brookside Airport at McCordsville, just east of Indianapolis.
Many witnesses saw the collision and the planes plummet almost straight down from the afternoon sky. Several reported seeing bodies tumble from the ripped tail of the airliner before the huge craft plunged "straight into the ground with the smaller plane still entangled in it."
The destruction, of people and things, seemed total. Parts of bodies were scattered in the wreckage. Clothing hung from trees. Money blew along the ground. Searchers found a Chinese newspaper with a photograph of the Apollo 11 astronauts and a Chinese book on philosophy among the twisted metal.
Carey's wife told of his love of flying. Their six children range in age from 11 years to 8 months old. Mrs. Carey cried as she spoke.
"A good pilot," she said. "He loved to fly."
"He decided he wanted a private license so his family could fly with him. He finally saw his way clear financially to start flying again. Ten more hours and he would have had his private license."

Saugerties School Accord, $300 for Most Teachers

SAUGERTIES was raised by $300 and credit for graduate courses was raised from $10 to $15 per semester hour. Both increases keep Saugerties in line with teachers' salaries in the area, the board announced today.
Negotiations on a new contract began last January. The existing contract expired June 30.
Saugerties Teachers Association announced Sept. 3 that the teachers had voted tentative approval of a contract with the school board. The vote, revealed at an STA meeting in Donlon Auditorium, was based upon a contract summary pending the completion of the final draft.
The teachers' action at that time authorized STA President Herman Wilcox to sign a contract with the board when the pact was completed by lawyers for both sides.
In March the STA negotiating team declared that the discussions had reached an impasse and the matter was turned over to the State Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) and Dr. Egon Plager was assigned as conciliator, after an agreement could not be reached through the efforts of a PERB-appointed mediator.
Dr. Plager issued a fact-finding report and again there was no total agreement. The contract terms were presented and argued in frequent press releases until a decision was reached to halt all press releases until an agreement had been reached. The negotiation teams continued discussions.
Eventually, the STA called in a State Teachers Association attorney and the board also retained legal counsel. After several sessions the attorneys and teams reached agreement on July 23 and a date of Aug. 15 was set for STA ratification and Aug. 18 for the board. Nothing further was heard until the teachers announced tentative agreement on Sept. 3.
Ratification of a new contract between the teachers and Saugerties Central School Board of Education has been approved and the contract providing a $300 increase to most of the teachers was signed Tuesday.
Some Get More
Robert Herb, board president, said today that under the new contract most of the teachers received a $300 increase with some receiving more due to tenure.
This is in addition to the annual increments received by the teachers, he said. The starting salary for a beginning teacher

The First Mayoral Debate: UR, Finances Are Topics

By HUGH REYNOLDS
KINGSTON
Urban Renewal and city finances were the two main topics of discussion as the three men seeking to succeed Raymond W. Garraghan as mayor of Kingston met in public debate for the first time Tuesday night.
The three, James J. Tyrrell (Republican), Francis R. Koenig (Democrat-Liberal) and Bernard Singer (Conservative) discussed the issues before the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club at the Kirkland Hotel.
The program was moderated by Mrs. Margaret Johnson, legislative affairs chairman of the club. Each candidate was given five minutes for a presentation which was followed by one-minute rebuttals. A question and answer session followed.
Singer was the first speaker and he called for an end of "dictation from Washington and Albany." He said he has not made a decision on accepting the County Conservative Party's platform of "rejecting urban renewal." "I will meet with Urban Renewal Director James Connors before taking a stand." That meeting was set for today (Wednesday), Singer said.
Singer, in touching on city finances referred to a statement by Gov. Rockefeller in which he quoted the governor as saying that the state needs more money to pay for the increased services people are demanding. "That's a lot of baloney," Singer said.
Singer said he would run Kingston like a business. "Mayor Garraghan in his own different way has tried to do that," he said. "However, costs have risen 12 per cent this year."
Koenig was the second speaker and urged the group to carefully study all the statements in the campaign over the next seven weeks.
Koenig then reviewed his record in public office which includes two years as secretary to former Mayor Edwin Radel, four years as an alderman from the old Ninth Ward and two years as alderman-at-large.
He warned the group to beware of candidates who make promises. "I am not one for making promises," he said. "Sometimes promises, due to unforeseen circumstances, can not be kept thus creating problems for all who may have become involved. Be wary of any candidate who makes promises which leave doubt in your mind as to their fulfillment. At the same time we must ask where all the money is coming from to finance all these programs."
Tyrrell, speaking on his campaign theme of "The Rebirth of a City," said, "The full realization that our government must be returned to the neighborhood will bring with it a rebirth of our city."
Tyrrell called for an economic program that would reflect "only the cost of operating the city." The Republican candidate called for the formation of a Kingston development corporation... on spot clearance rather than blanket clearance... Private homes... And as a result, lower taxes."
During the rebuttal period, Tyrrell rebuffed Koenig (then alderman-at-large) "of doing nothing to halt the Congressman (Joseph Y. Resnick) from coming in and bringing urban renewal to a halt. (Resnick triggered an investigation of urban renewal in the summer of 1967 that led to the resignation of the urban renewal director and the entire agency.)"
Koenig called for the abolishment of the program, Tyrrell charged.

Dirksen Salute-- Quiet Eloquence

WASHINGTON (AP) — No band played for Everett McKinley Dirksen. There were no muffled drums, no 21-gun salute. Only quiet eloquence as his President and the Congress bade him goodbye.

"Our great men are the common property of the country," said President Nixon in his eulogy to the Senate Republican leader. "Everett Dirksen of Illinois was and is the common property of the 50 states."

In an honor conferred on only 20 men before him, Dirksen lay beneath a blanket of roses in the great rotunda of the Capitol where he spent nearly half his 73 years. Instead of a flag on the coffin, there was the seal of the Senate.

After being borne at noon today without procession to the National Presbyterian Church for funeral services, the coffin, accompanied by Mrs. Dirksen and the family, will go aboard the Presidential jet for the flight to Pekin, Ill., and burial Thursday.

The memorial service Tuesday lasted only 24 minutes before 900 people who included Cabinet, senators past and present, most members of the House of Representatives and envoys of foreign governments.

He was an outspoken partisan, he was an individualist of the first rank," Nixon said of the man who had served the Republican party his state and his nation under four Presidents.

"Everett Dirksen added a grace and eloquence and courtliness to the word 'politician,'" Nixon added. "That is how he became leader of the minority."

His eulogy over, the President shook hands with Mrs. Dirksen and the Dirksens' daughter and her husband, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn. Sen. Baker gave a brief response in which he called Dirksen a realist as well as an idealist.

Dirksen's heart failed Sunday, five days after he underwent surgery for lung cancer.

At one end of Dirksen's coffin was a wreath of red, white and blue flowers placed by the President. On the sides were huge wreaths from the House and Senate. An honor guard, representing all the military services, stood a 24-hour watch.

Through the huge ornamental doors on the east front of the Capitol came the public—a last chance to pay respects to the man whose words and voice and wispy hair were known to almost every American.

They came in a steady stream for the first half hour, then in scattered groups—some obviously tourists, casually dressed and carrying cameras.

After Tuesday's services, the Senate resumed its normal business listening to speeches on the military procurement authorization bill.

Dirksen's front row desk, across the aisle from the desk of majority leader Mike Mansfield, was bare, except for a single marigold. A Dirksen hallmark was his annual pitch to make marigold the national flower.

The Senate called a recess again for two hours today to form a guard of honor at the church.

As Everett Dirksen of Illinois lay in state in the Great Rotunda on the catafalque first used for Abraham Lincoln of Illinois, the righthand star in a row of six over his office door lit up.

It indicated the Senate was in session again.

Pitch for Carrier

Navy Bid Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's request for a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier was under fire today from senators undaunted by an overwhelming defeat in their attempt to delay production of the C5A supercargo plane.

Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., have called up their amendment to slice $377.1 million for the carrier out of the $20 billion military procurement authorization bill.

The amendment would prevent the Pentagon from going ahead on the carrier pending a review by the General Accounting Office of anticipated costs and the need for carriers in an age of nuclear missiles.

This was the same approach used unsuccessfully Monday against the C5A.

Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, already has attacked the carrier amendment.

In voting on this amendment we may make a vital and crucial decision as to whether we will have an effective naval arm in the late 1970s and 1980s," said the Mississippi Democrat.

Backers of the Pentagon picked up the support of a number of senators who favor a reduction in U.S. overseas forces Tuesday to defeat Sen. William Proxmire's amendment to slash $533 million for the C5A from the bill. The amendment lost 64-23.

Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., were among those who contended that more C5As will give the United States the capacity to ferry more troops and equipment overseas quickly, thus reducing the need to station so many soldiers on foreign soil.

But Proxmire, D-Wis., won approval by a 90-0 vote of another amendment. It is designed to prevent conflicts of interest among military officers or civilian officials who leave the Pentagon to go to work for defense contractors, and officials of large firms who go to work for the Pentagon.

It would require public disclosure of such connections for three years after the switch is made. Consultants would also be covered.

PRIME carcasses are excellent in conformation and quality. They must have a high degree of finish and marbling because they go to a trade which requires rich tender steaks and roasts even if they include considerable waste fat. Prime beef has a thick covering of firm white or creamy-white fat; the lean is pink or bright cherry-red, firm and well marbled. It is used in the best hotel, restaurant, dining car, steamship and retail trade. Only the best steers and heifers qualify for this grade. To produce Prime beef requires well-bred cattle and large amounts of corn.

CHOICE lacks the finish and often the conformation and quality required for Prime beef.

GOOD beef consists largely of the carcasses of grass fed steers and heifers or those which were fed only limited amounts of corn. They do not have the conformation, quality, nor finish of the higher grades.

STANDARD beef comes from relatively youthful steers, heifers, and cows. These carcasses are inferior in conformation, quality and finish to those placed in the GOOD grade.

COMMERCIAL beef comes from mature animals, mostly old cows. Its fat covering is moderately thick to thick and is usually yellow.

UTILITY is the lowest grade of beef sold in most markets. It includes steers, heifers and cows which are not enough for the Commercial grade.

Seeger Controversy Continues

Royal Reception Planned for Clearwater

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

KINGSTON — The question from Alderman John Heitzman (D-First Ward, Kingston) was: "If the Clearwater (Hudson River anti-pollution sloop, captained by folk singer Pete Seeger) were sponsored by Ho Chi Minh or Fidel Castro, would it get the publicity it is getting?"

The readiest answer that occurred to most local wits: "A whale of a lot more than it's getting now!"

Heitzman contended at a Common Council meeting here last week that Seeger was an unwise choice to head the Clearwater crew since, said the alderman, "he has been associated with the Communist Party for over 20 years; led the children away like the Pied Piper."

This week Heitzman found support for his stand from the Ulster County American Legion. County Commander Thomas Rizzo spoke for Legionnaires here when he said they "questioned the accolades bestowed on Seeger, labeled a 'communist' in the past."

But if Heitzman was adamant that he "wouldn't walk across the street to see the Clearwater as long as Seeger is associated with it," other Ulsterites were concerned this week with welcoming the sloop royally.

Among them was Robert Gannon, a conservation writer of High Falls.

Politics Irrelevant

Gannon counters the Heitzman-Legion attack sharply: "The environmental pollution question is so important that politics are irrelevant, including Seeger's politics." He contends that if our politics were remotely reasonable, social conscience would make it essential to treat our environment needs as a major crisis, and to reassess our values.

Edgar Rosenblum, Woodstock Playhouse producer who has booked concerts by Seeger at his theatre, rejecting whatever controversy is brewing just as forthrightly. Said Rosenblum: "The alderman and the gentlemen of the Legion are guilty of foolish, childish nonsense."

City of Kingston Historian Harry Rigby, who plans "to walk across the street" Saturday morning to welcome the Clearwater to Kingston, also disagrees with the example being set by the dissenters. Rigby feels "there is nothing one can say about the Clearwater that isn't nice." He points out that it is a unique form of naval architecture particularly adapted for use on the Hudson River; that it played a highly important part in our past; that it is "shameful" all such sloops have been lost forever to museums.

In charge of coordinating activities for the city on the Clearwater's arrival here, Rigby calls the sloop "a laudable project to show the people of today on what was built the commerce of the Hudson Valley." He notes that the Clearwater is NOT Pete Seeger and that it is not Seeger's sloop. The singer, he says, is only attempting to publicize it and help induce some interest in it. He also pointed out "there was nothing proved" except "smear by association" during Seeger's confrontation with McCarthy.

A Crime Buster?

The Pied Piper label given to Seeger by his local critics was refuted in softer terms by Robert R. Graves Jr., principal of Port Ewen School and commander of that community's Legion Post. Graves granted that Seeger is "controversial," but said it shouldn't matter who discusses a "crime," and that polluting air and water is a crime. Referring to himself as "the establishment," Graves acknowledged that Seeger is "very influential" with younger people which the establishment is not. "If he can get youth concerned — really concerned — about water and air, this is what we need," suggested Graves, adding that "the establishment group has never been able to do this."

Academy Award winning screen writer Howard Koch, of Woodstock, also came to Seeger's defense. "Name-calling is a shabby substitute for thought," says Koch. "Labels mean nothing, only deeds. And Seeger's deed, with the Clearwater project, is to try to save our own river, the Hudson, and symbolically, all our streams and natural resources that are being so tragically exploited and despoiled."

Another opinion was voiced by Elmer Carney, vice-chairman of the Perrine's Bridge Committee and long interested in local preservation projects. Carney, who believes we should purify the Hudson, a part of our national heritage, also believes the American way should assure anyone condemned the chance to face his accusers and answer back. On that basis, he is requesting Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan to call a special meeting of the Common Council, allowing Heitzman to report any information he has, and giving those promoting the sloop project the right to answer.

'Tainted' Sloop Group?

What Heitzman has, he told The Freeman today, is "a list of more than 20 organizations Seeger has been associated with — organizations declared 'subversive and communist' or 'Communist front' in House Un-American Activities Committee records."

Heitzman feels the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc. has become "tainted" through its association with Seeger; is no different from "any of the communist groups he is crediting with promoting." He came forward, he said, "to puncture the balloon of Seeger as a folksinger hero," hopes no official welcome will be given him when he arrives in Kingston.

Meanwhile, those responsible for officially welcoming the Clearwater to Kingston went about the business of patching up the "punctured balloon" without acknowledging its deflation. Happily shrugging off the "tainted" label as one conceived for Heitzman's "political purposes," Town of Woodstock historian, Edgar C. Leaycraft, thanked the "friendly alderman for aiding the Clearwater's publicity."

French folksongstress, Sonia Malkine, of Shady who'll lead a large delegation of area entertainers to Rondout dockside Saturday at 11 a.m. and again

Sunday afternoon, had only one comment. With tongue-in-cheek, she suggested Heitzman and Rizzo might do well to consider that "the last man to call Pete a communist spent four years in prison for this pains."

In the final analysis, it really didn't seem to matter whether Seeger was a saint of our times on a holy mission or the Red Menace in disguise. In all probability, Kingston's welcome will be as joyous as the many others given the Clearwater along the Hudson this summer. After all, as one of the oldest of the river ports, the city has seen more than one sloop come and go, and more than one political controversy, too.

Fund Set Aside For Saugerties

POUGHKEEPSIE — Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. today announced that $48,234 has been set aside by the Federal Housing Administration for construction of a 60-unit Senior Citizens Housing Project in Saugerties.

According to Congressman Fish, he had been notified of the set aside action by Robert Smith, of the Albany office of the federal Housing Administration.

Rep. Fish said the $48,234 indicates an important preliminary step has been taken toward realization of the project and that now a feasibility determination will be made by the FHA. Following the completion of the feasibility study, the project sponsors will have 60 days in which to file an application.

Rep. Fish said he had been first notified of the proposed project by Ward Ingalsbe of Kingston, attorney for the project. I am certainly pleased about this preliminary approval, and stand ready to do everything within my power to assist in such locally initiated projects," Rep. Fish said.

School Building Confrontation

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) — A peaceful occupation of a school building by close to 50 persons early today forced a pre-dawn confrontation between the group and school officials to discuss their protest—a lack of school buses.

Police in this Hudson River city stood by as members of Poughkeepsie Board of Education entered the Middle School on the edge of the city at 5 a.m. to meet with the demonstrators.

The group, parents of children who they say have to walk up to 2½ miles to get to class, went to the school shortly after midnight on the pretence of talking to a custodian.

Once inside, police said, the parents locked themselves in and stayed there. No effort was made to eject them immediately.

Mrs. Marie Tarver, board president, said classes on schedule.

Four members of the seven-member board met with two representatives of the citizens' group.

The building holds classes for all city public school pupils in the fourth through eighth grades. Other schools are within walking distance, but the Middle School is just at the city line. There is no bus service.

Mrs. Tarver said Poughkeepsie's Model Cities Board had authorized $60,000 in model cities funds to pay for transportation to the school, but the appropriation needs the approval of the city's common council. There has been no vote on the proposal yet.

The group occupying the building was part of a 400-member citizens committee which held a meeting Tuesday night in a high school to protest the lack of bus service.

Rosendale—Another Battle

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE

Another battle looms in this village tonight at the monthly meeting of trustees when Mayor William P. Curran is expected to fight an advisory vote held Aug. 27 that all but killed his plan to have water meters installed.

Curran and Trustees William Ritter and Kenneth Smith called for the vote, even though it was not technically needed to obtain the feeling of the public on the $30,000 question. They contended before the vote that "we will abide by the voters decision," but, after the plan was turned down 81-74, Curran said he will push for meters anyway.

The mayor has charged that the poll "was not representative" of the users' opinion because of "pressure" in the form of "an active campaign against meters."

Said Curran: "The vote was sufficiently close" to show that "the people are willing to accept water meters."

Curran laid the blame for the anti-meter campaign on "a small corps of reactionary people who are against me and meters." The mayor said no campaign was held "for" the plan. "No campaigning, no telephone calls, no dragging into the booth, by me to get votes for meters."

Trustee Smith took exception to Curran's challenge of the vote saying he knew "nothing" of any campaign "against meters."

Smith, who holds the cards in the three-man trustee vote expected tonight even if Curran is able to obtain support from Ritter, said he will keep his agreement with the voters to let the poll decide on meters.

Smith said he was "discouraged" over the results of the advisory vote, but denied that he knew of a "no" campaign.

Ritter said he is in agreement with Curran on the water meters, calling them "the only fair way to pay for your water."

But, Curran's hopes for a Main Street trunk line sewer program seemed closer to real life today as U.S. Army Corps of Engineers officials in Manhattan and Washington debated his plan as an alternative to their own system.

The mayor said he has sent a lengthy note to the North Atlantic Division of the Corps telling of the need for the Main Street trunk line over the "header" plan and said copies also went to Washington officials.

John Barry in Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.'s Poughkeepsie office confirmed reports that the Corps of Engineers is looking with some favor on the trunk line and said more information on the project has been requested by high officials who will have to make the final decision.

Rochester Sets 3rd Hearing

ACCORD A third public hearing on the Town of Rochester Development Plan will be held in the Allgerville Firehouse Thursday at 8 p. m., the town board announced at its September meeting recently.

The board also said it is considering a public law to regulate public assembly and that the town's attorney is examining the proposed law to be discussed at the October meeting.

A special meeting of the board is scheduled for Thursday for selection of a contractor on the planned town garage from bids opened at the September meeting.

Mrs. Verna Sherman was appointed dog enumerator for the township at the meeting.

The corps had planned to a barrage from Curran and Curran will get the additional money needed for the trunk line week to dump raw sewage into and against further pollution of the Rondout Creek but halted the creek. The Corps' question is where of $28,000 for the "headers."

Objections Are Lodged With the Elections Board

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Preliminary objections to the nominating petitions of Republican County Legislator Joseph Martorana (Ninth District) and Gardner Democratic Supervisor George Majestic were filed with the Board of Elections Tuesday morning by attorney John Egan and Rueben F. Weed of Walker in behalf of five Southern Ulster County residents.

Gardner GOP Chairman Warren J. McDowell, Roy F. Dennis, Martorana and Richard Borchering all of Gardner raised objections to Majestic's petitions and Da- Rosenbaum of Pine Bush

Valley object to Martorana's petitions.

The basis for the complaint in the case of Majestic's petitions is the fact that a Democrat candidate for reelection to the post of supervisor, he also filed a petition to run for the same position on an independent, anti-sales tax party ticket as well as seeking the post of county legislator on the independent, anti-sales tax ticket.

The objectors claim that such action is contrary and in conflict with Section 411 of the Election Law.

They contend that because a person may not hold a town office and a county office at the same time they therefore cannot run for a town and county office simultaneously.

Although the two members of the Election Board, Republican Seymour Werbalowsky and Democrat Joseph I. Epstein may not rule in judicial matters, they may conduct a hearing on the matter before making a decision as to whether to accept the petitions or not.

Objections to Martorana's pe-tion in which he seeks to run for county legislator as an independent on the Taxpayers Party ticket are alleged to be "not sufficient, void and not in accordance with the provisions of the election law."

It is reported that many signatures are written in pencil and that the number of signatures on a page are not tallied as required with as many as 68 signatures on five pages not totaled. Martorana, who needs 387 valid signatures on his petition, filed 488. Majestic needs 167 and filed 278.

Asked what his chances of election would be running as an Independent, Martorana stated, "The people of the Town of Lloyd, Marlboro, Plattekill and Shawangunk who signed my petitions are Republicans, Democrats, Conservatives, Liberals and non-enrolled voters who are all opposed to higher taxes and carefree government spending. These same people and many more who were not reached in two days will be the ones who will vote for me in November. I think like they do and they want a voice in the Ulster County Legislature. My record as a legislator speaks for itself and I am confident I will be voted into office on Election Day."

Waste Disposal Heated Subject in Red Hook

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

Waste disposal reared its head once again at the Red Hook Town Board meeting Tuesday evening.

Subject of heated discussion among approximately 50 people in a crowded, hot room was the establishment of a one-acre refuse area in the town by Orchard Hills Farm Inc., a large frozen-pie manufacturing plant.

Orchard Hills, represented by an attorney, has made application with the town for operation of the site, located one half mile from Spring Lake Road on Highland Farms, formerly the Thomas Tripp farm, operated by a Mr. Thaler in absentia.

The Town Board has not yet consented to agree to the establishment, pending more information in writing from the Dutchess County Board of Health ascertaining that the property is fit for use as specified.

Orchard Hills Farms Inc. wishes to dump a liquid chemical effluent, amounting to one tanker truck of about 500 gallons per day, into a 10-foot excavation. The effluent, which is waste put through the primary sewer process, will then be neutralized with chlorinated lime and covered with a few inches of dirt, as is customary in sanitary landfills.

Two main objections by the townspeople in the vicinity of the proposed site were objectionable odor and the possible damage that seepage into the wells might do.

A new bulldozer, operated by Mr. Thaler, would cover the waste once it had solidified. The landfill site would be used by no one other than Orchard Hill Farms Inc., and no solid waste would be hauled there.

Town Attorney Albert Trezza noted that the ordinance specifically calls for no more than five dumps in the town, and that there are only two currently operating. Also, there is a definitive list of rules by which the site would have to be run. Either the town or the County Department of Health would have the right to close down the dump at any time upon infringement of any of these rules.

The main reason that Orchard Hill Farms, Inc. has a need for haste in setting up a facility is that the present site which it employs is being closed by the operator for business reasons. The counsel for the corporation stressed that the production might have to cease if no method were found for disposing of the wastes. It is the largest single employer in private enterprise in the Town of Red Hook.

A representative of the Board of Health has inspected the site and has declared the site suitable for the proposed purpose.

A petition from area residents opposing the site was well-backed by the show of enthusiasm at the meeting. A rousing ovation was elicited by Attorney Trezza's remark that you people just don't want it there." Trezza pointed out that if the site met specifications and the Town Board did not grant the OK, the town could be legally prosecuted under Article 78.

Supervisor Warren Simmons, in a plea to the people for understanding, said, "We have an expanding population, and the more people we have, the more garbage we are going to have. We must deal with the problem. Our responsibility on the board is to make sure that the ordinance, and the protection of the residents, are complied with."

Rhinebeck Mayor Seeking More Zoning Flexibility

RHINEBECK Mayor Peter Sipperley Tuesday night expressed opinions indicating a preference for further flexibility in the proposed village zoning ordinance re-vamping.

At the Village Board meeting he stated that he would like to finish on the firehouse-village hall complex "before becoming involved in the zoning." The plan itself "does not show much of a change" from the present system. "I think some of the small business restrictions are kind of inflexible," said the mayor. There has been no date set as yet for further implementation of the process to bring the zoning plan before the public.

A letter of thanks was read from the Dutchess County Fair committee for the cooperation extended by village officials, and mention was made of upcoming plans to use the two large new buildings again for a winter ice skating and tennis program.

Bids were conditionally accepted on fire hose, with Tech Supply Company winning the bidding with a total cost of $3,395.

Prominent notice was made of David Whittaker, a college student who aided state police in apprehending an intruder two weeks ago. "The police couldn't have caught him without David's help," mentioned Sipperley. Village police handled 31 cases during August.

Crystal Lake, the subject of some complaint of late, will be treated with a chemical this week and next week in order to rid it of abundant algae.

The resignation of Assistant Town Clerk Helen Asher was accepted with regrets by the board. A replacement, Margaret Dougherty, was named to fill the position.

Water Department officers discussed the possibility of cooperation with surrounding communities in operation of its pumping and filtering facilities.

Architect's plans for the firehouse-village hall complex should be available, with electrical and plumbing plans, in a couple of weeks.

HUNGER TESTIMONY — Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J. (L) who is chairman of a special Senate Committee on Aging, testified before the Special Senate Committee on Hunger Tuesday. Williams said that for 7 million Americans who are both old and poor, food is treated as a luxury, an expendable item which must give way in the face of other expenses. These people simply are "too poor to buy enough food," he said. At right is Mrs. Gordon Canfield, of the Paterson, N. J. Municipal Office for Aging. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Detroit to Choose Between Black, White

DETROIT (UPI)—The nation's fifth largest city, torn two summers ago by racial violence that claimed 43 lives, will choose between a black man and a white man for County auditor who is black, and Roman S. Gribbs, the Wayne County sheriff, were the easy winners Tuesday in a nonpartisan primary election that drew the heaviest voter turnout in 32 years.

Both men immediately promised a campaign free of racial bitterness—difficult in a city still physically and emotionally scarred by the 1967 holocaust. "I can assure you that we won't have a racist campaign," Austin, 56, promised his cheering supporters at a victory party in a downtown hotel.

"We will be mayor of all the people, not just some of the people. We will show the people of Detroit what democracy is really like." At another hotel just a few blocks away, Gribbs, 43, made a similar pledge, though it was tinted with a law-and-order hue. "We want to work for more unity, not polarization," Gribbs said. "We want both blacks and whites to be the beneficiaries—not the victims—of police action. We want more police on the street."

The two men jumped out to early leads in the field of 28 candidates and Austin soon pulled far ahead. Forty per cent of Detroit's 1.6 million residents are Negro, and Austin was polling close to 80 per cent of the votes in black precincts.

Gribbs, whose private polls had showed he would emerge on top, for a time ran neck-and-neck with Mary V. Beck, 61, a 20-year veteran of the Common (City) Council and a self-proclaimed law-and-order candidate.

But he pulled away from Miss Beck to win a place on the Nov. 4 runoff election. Advertising executive Walter C. Shamie, 48, who was swamped by retiring Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh in 1965, ran a distant fourth.

With 58.5 per cent of the vote counted, Austin had 69,907 votes; Gribbs had 53,272; Miss Beck had 39,429 and Shamie had 5,071.

Betros, Rolison Criticized By Dutchess Dem Chairman

RED HOOK In a talk to the Red Hook Women's Democratic Club Monday evening, Dutchess County Democratic Chairman Glenn C. Van Bramer sharply criticized Assemblyman Emeel Betros and State Senator Jay P. Rolison.

The remark was made in a discussion of the educational crisis in the state, with scores of schools forced to use "austerity" budgets.

"The seeds for the widespread taxpayer rejection of school budgets in Dutchess County and across the state were sown by the State Legislature this year when they passed a budget with absolutely callous disregard of the educational needs for our children," said Van Bramer.

He said that the Legislature knew that austerity budgets would result from cutting "promised aid" from the state budget. "They knew that primary and secondary school children would be forced to walk along major highways with a 50-mile-an-hour speed limit," he said.

"The Republican legislators of our county are trying to squirm off the voter's hook by saying they will support legislation that will permit transportation of all students under future austerity budgets. The answer lies not in redefining the meaning of austerity budgets, but in joining in the call for a special session of the State Legislature to restore these budget cuts," said Van Bramer.

He pointed out that more than 1,500 county residents signed a petition at the County Democratic Fair booth calling for such a special session. The list was sent to the Legislature.

Rochester GOP Hopefuls Speak

ROCHESTER Town of Rochester Republicans meeting recently heard town and county candidates speak concerning the office they seek.

Among them were Town Supervisor Franklin Kelder; Superintendent of Highways Richard Gray; Town Clerk Eileen Baker; councilmen candidates Charles Logan and Harold Lipton; Assessor Harry Krom and candidate for assessor Richard Countryman.

County Legislator Philip Davis who seeks reelection also addressed the group.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 7 at 8 p. m. at the Alligerville Firehouse. The speakers will be Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Senator Jay P. Rolison. Plans for an open supper and rally will be completed at that time.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 10, 1969

Senator Everett M. Dirksen

The death of Everett McKinley Dirksen, Republican leader of the United States Senate for the past 10 years, removes from the seat of power in our national government an outstanding political figure.

Outspoken, individualistic and flamboyant, Dirksen served his country conscientiously and with great skill over a span of time measured in decades—three and a half decades altogether; 16 years in the House and 19 in the Senate.

When this nation honors a man like Senator Dirksen, it also honors the political system, the ideology, which produced him and which will produce other men worthy to follow in his footsteps.

That is the American system, and it works because men like Dirksen make it work.

Dirksen once told a reporter that his early ambition had been to be an actor—"a thespian treading the boards," was how he put it in his characteristically flowery fashion.

He certainly had the voice for it, and the stage presence and sense of the dramatic. But his mother, he explained, persuaded him against such a "sinful" profession. So, he said, he chose the next best thing—politics.

We err seriously, however, if we allow the cornpone facets of Dirksen's personality to obscure the real man. He, too, was a tough opponent, as several presidents came to learn quite well.

Often he appeared bullheaded, jealous of his prerogatives and more concerned with political expediency than with progressive legislation.

But he played by the rules, and when it came down to a question of fundamental principles—the Civil Rights Act of 1964, for example—he was truly a leader of stature.

Everett Dirksen has now taken a place in the pantheon of other great senators—Webster, Clay, Taft (the list is a long one).

This is no sentimental twaddle. It is a fact, about which all Americans can be proud.

Write Your Representative

By all means, write your representatives at Washington and at Albany when you have a definite view on a pending bill. But be sure you know how to write them.

Letters should be addressed correctly. The address of U.S. Senator Jacob K. Javits and U.S. Senator Charles Goodell is Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510; Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510.

Letters to State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell should be sent to State Capitol Building, Albany, N. Y. 12226.

Identify the bill you are interested in, by number if possible, by description otherwise.

Write in time to do some good, before a bill is out of committee or even already voted on.

Write your own representative both in Washington and Albany only. Usually, a letter from out of state or district is passed on to your representative.

Be brief and legible. Give your own views. A form letter gets a form reply. The representative wants to hear your own views.

Give reasons for your position. If you have specialized knowledge on some issue it may be valuable.

Japan exported $1.1 billion more to the United States than her American imports last year. Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans says this is a tidal wave and there is no way that a policy of free trade can cope with it. Limitations of imports on major producers is gaining support in Congress, but trade restrictions are a two-edge sword that can hurt us also.

Astronaut Neil Armstrong has qualified for a legacy of 100,000 francs left by an eccentric French widow in 1891 to the first man to set his foot on a heavenly body. In 1891, the reward was worth $20,000. If invested as dollars at four per cent it would now be worth $400,000. Devaluations over the years has reduced the value of the bequest to about $180.

Ford Motor Company hopes to pioneer an air bag safety device in 1971 on its Marquis. The bag is triggered by an impact at 8 m.p.h., inflates in 1/100ths of a second and deflates in one-half second. The bag helps cushion the car occupant up to a 40-mile an hour crash. Transportation Secretary John Volpe wants widespread use of the bags by 1972.

David Lawrence Says Dirksen Showed Ability As Leader of Senate

WASHINGTON — Everett Dirksen as leader of the Republican party in the Senate has passed away, but his spirit of affability, conciliation and good natured criticism of his opposition will linger on as an example of tact and effectiveness. Contemporaries in Congress will agree that he showed a knack in leadership which is sometimes called political skill but in reality is a keen understanding of human nature and how to make agreements and compromises in complex legislative situations.

As the head of the minority party in the Senate, the Illinois senator often found himself trying to hold his own party in line or adeptly seeking support inside the ranks of the majority party.

The task of a leader of either party in the Senate or House is not easily explained to persons who have not been in intimate touch with Congress. For a president depends very much on what the two leaders in the Senate and the two leaders in the House are able to do, and a great deal even on the leader in each case whose party isn't in the majority.

Thus, President Eisenhower counted on Lyndon Johnson to work out some compromises when the latter was majority leader of the Senate and the Republican party was in the minority. When Mr. Johnson became President, he, in turn, established a workable system of communication with Mr. Dirksen, the minority leader in the Senate, as well as with the leader of his own party there. Scarcely a week goes by that a president doesn't call in the party leaders of both houses of Congress to tell them the inside story of many a problem, mentioning things which a chief executive cannot always talk about in public but which have to do with the merits of legislation that is being considered.

Everett Dirksen had a cordial personality which won him many friends. He didn't make unkind remarks about his opponents, but didn't mind jesting about them every now and then in order to get his point across.

The senator from Illinois was a conspicuous figure in Republican national conventions, but the ability he showed as a leader of the Senate will always be regarded as his greatest achievement. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, expressed the idea in an interesting tribute which reflected the attitude of opponents of the Republican leader. Mr. Meany said:

"We and the Senator were often on different sides on major issues, but we always knew him as an opponent of great legislative skill."

Senator Dirksen was usually called a "conservative" in the press, but much of the legislation which he supported could hardly be classified that way. He was a traditional Republican. Though he at first opposed the Civil Rights Act of 1964, for example, he later became one of its staunchest supporters. Looking back over history, this latter position is exactly what one would have expected of a Republican leader.

Everett Dirksen was regarded by many as a man with an intimate knowledge of politics but, in his advocacy of certain measures, he occasionally disregarded political considerations and supported the cause which he thought was right. He favored removal of the ban on prayer in the schools, and was criticized for it by some groups. But basically he was not in favor of any prescribed prayer or the establishment of any religion in the public schools. He seemed to feel that the right to pray should be the right of every individual even in the classroom.

Senator Howard H. Baker, Jr., Republican of Tennessee, said of his father-in-law, Everett Dirksen: "He died as he lived, facing reality, making difficult judgements, fighting, winning, losing, but always at peace with himself."

Many a Senator, in paying tribute to Mr. Dirksen, spoke especially of his warm personality and praised the astuteness of his mind in handling legislation in Congress. Few people, however, knew the spiritual side of the man. In 1965 he delivered a eulogy at the funeral of a close friend in which he referred to "the ageless question" raised by job: "If a man die, shall he live again?" Everett Dirksen answered thus:

"Surely he shall, as surely as day follows night, as surely as the stars follow their courses, as surely as the crest of every wave brings its trough."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Satire is not a lost art. It gathers dust in literary attics. At its best, satire paints pomposity in ridiculous terms. Recently, there has been an effort to revive it. The best example, in my opinion, is a small $1 book published by Ballantine called "The Begatting of a President."

It was written by three jaundiced prophets named Miron Roberts, Lincoln Haynes, and Sasha Gilien.

They used the Bible to paint the ludicrous situation in which this country finds itself. Take Richard Nixon, for example.

"Now it came to pass that the Republicans saw there was confusion amongst their enemies and the new election would fall upon them. And they asked: 'But who is there to lead us that we may cast out the Democrats and dwell in the tents of power?' And they searched their hearts."

"Some amongst them cried out for Romney the Rambler. But the chieftains beheld him and saw that his brain had been washed. And others cried out for Rockefeller, for lo! His name ringeth of bullion. But the chiefs regarded him and found taint, for he had drunk not from the cup of Gold Water. And there was Ronald, he of the late, late show, whose hair, like his heart, was dyed black. And the South Clave unto him, but the delegates cast him forth, for he was not the hero, but the hero's best friend."

"Wherefore, they cried out, 'Could we but raise Richard from the dead, we should have a mighty champion and slayer of Democrats.' And the Republicans did unto themselves: 'We are the resurrection and the life, and the law and the order. He that believeth in us, though he were dead, yet shall he live.'"

"But the supporters of Rocky cried out: 'He hath lain four years in his grave, wherefore he stinketh.' And the Republicans said: 'Yet shall we raise him, and he shall be perfumed o'er and anointed with moderation, that he may become a New Nixon.'"

"And they said unto him: 'Richard, rise and come forth. And lo! He came forth bound hand and foot with winding sheets. And they took them from him and brought him a New Image.'"

"And they said: 'The first Nixon was of the Earth; the last is of the Spirit.' And the Spirit of God lighted upon him like a Dove. And he said: 'I came back. For he that loseth the election shall win it, and the last shall be first. But is it not meet that I should have a running mate?' And they brought him an Agnew, and together they journeyed across the land, like unto living men."

Lyndon Johnson: "In the beginning LBJ created the Great Society. And darkness was upon the face of the Republicans. And the spirit of consensus moved across the land. And LBJ said: 'Let us continue' and they continued. And the evening and the morning were the first day."

"And LBJ said: 'Let us make war on poverty' and lo! there were welfare checks fallen upon the land, and upon them was writ: 'Fold not, neither shall ye spindle nor multitate.' And LBJ saw that it was good."

"And LBJ said: 'Let there be a Civil Rights Covenant to unite the children of light and darkness. And so it came to pass the Congress. And the evening and the morning were the third day.'"

"And LBJ said: 'Let there be Medicare, that the sick may be healed and the doctors paid unto the fullest measure thereof.' And LBJ saw that it was paid."

"And LBJ said: 'Let there be bureaus and departments without number, and let them be fruitful and multiply, so that every critter that flieth, creepeth or voteth shall be blessed with patronage, each in his own precinct.'"

"And LBJ saw that it was finger lickin' good and the evening and the morning were the fifth day. And LBJ said: 'Let there be nuclear nonproliferation, and let the capitalist lie down with the commissar, that they may exchange corn and culture.'"

"And LBJ pulled out his pool and saw that it was good, even unto the tenth cubit. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day. And LBJ saw the Society he had made, and behold! it was Great. And on the seventh day he gave a barbecue."

"Still, LBJ rested not from his labors, but said: 'Shucks, let there be an eighth day. And on the eighth day he escalated.'"

But there was a prophet named Hubert, who said: 'Naked came I out of the Senate and naked shall I return, ere I defy my Maker. For LBJ giveth and LBJ taketh away. Blessed be the name of Texas.'"

Jack Anderson Says Former LBJ Aide on Health Research With Tobacco Lobby

WASHINGTON — A former LBJ aide, who tried to use his White House position to soften the government's press releases against smoking, has now turned up on the payroll of the Tobacco Institute.

He is Fred Panzer, who worked on health research at the White House before he signed on with the cigarette lobby.

In his role as a presidential health specialist, he fired a terse memo to his superior in the White House, Doug Cater, declaring impatiently: "As a smoker, I find the streams of HEW releases on the horrors of smoking irritating."

Instead of an anti-smoking campaign, Panzer suggested that a softer, how-to-stop-smoking campaign would be less "irritating."

"I am convinced and so are millions of other smokers," he wrote, "what's needed now is a program to actually help people stop smoking. I think this would have very great appeal and serve a true public health need."

Cater forwarded Panzer's suggestion to Dr. Philip R. Lee, then one of HEW's assistant secretaries, who didn't consider it in the public interest to stop the anti-cigarette campaign but who was more than eager to help people stop smoking.

"The single most important limiting factor," he replied to the White House, "is availability of funds."

Panzer insisted to this column that there was no connection between his attempt to soft-pedal the government's anti-cigarette releases and his job offer from the cigarette lobby. This column asked whether he was still trying to help people stop smoking now that he is a lobbyist for the Tobacco Institute.

"Before I took this job," he said, "I investigated the matter and became convinced there are two sides to the question of smoking. Right now I feel the other side hasn't been heard."

He paused for a moment, then added an afterthought. "I don't think I'm dealing in death," he said, hopefully.

Fanatic With Matches

Just as World War I was touched off by a distraught Serbian nationalist who assassinated Austrian Arch-duke Francis Ferdinand, the Middle East flames have been fanned to a hot fury by a religious fanatic who felt that judgment day was near and that he was foreordained by God to precipitate a holy war.

Evidence has now reached Washington confirming the Israeli claim that Dennis Rohen, a 28-year-old Australian Christian, set the Al Aksa Mosque fire that almost caused the holy war he wanted.

Rohen came to Israel early last spring as a volunteer worker, tall, fair, neatly dressed and quiet spoken. He was sent to the Kibbutz Mishmar Hasharon where he started out as a diligent and exemplary worker.

There was something about him, however, that troubled his coworkers.

"He used to get an exalted look on his face whenever he was reciting from the Bible," recalled one Kibbutz member. "His mouth worked feverishly. I didn't like it."

Rohen made a habit of fasting once a week "to cleanse and purify himself." In his spare time, he studied the Bible, worked on religious correspondence courses and held endless theological discussions.

In time, Rohen became completely ruled by his fanaticism. He refused to work, preferring to spend his time, alone, unkempt, with a Bible on his knees. He was finally asked to leave the Kibbutz.

About a week before the disastrous fire, Rohen appeared at Al Aksa and began asking guards whether there had been a fire in the Mosque the day before. Arrested for questioning, he began spouting biblical quotes and was dismissed as a harmless nut. It was later discovered that Rohen, indeed, had made an unsuccessful attempt to burn down the Mosque. The next time, he succeeded and roused Arab passions to the explosion point.

Apparently, this is the decade of the demented—men like Lee Oswald James Earl Ray, Sirhan Sirhan and, now, Dennis Rohen—whose insane deeds are altering history.

Uninformed Editors

Two young White House aides quietly infiltrated the recent conference of college editors in Colorado. At a bull session attended by more than 70 editors, the question of draft reforms was discussed. The White House aides were appalled to find that only one college editor knew that President Nixon had called for the abolition of the draft.

When this was reported back to the President, he decided to dramatize his draft reforms by issuing directives to correct deficiencies that don't require new legislation. He wants the younger generation to know that he is concerned about their problems.

Oversize Airliners

Airline executives having having second thoughts about Boeing's giant new 747, which will begin a New York-to-London run for Pan American Airways on December 15.

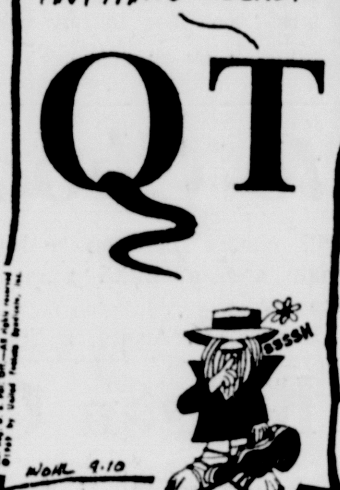

The huge planes will carry 350 to 500 passengers who will sit eight or nine abreast, separated by long, theater-like aisles. Consequently, only a few will be able to see out the windows.

Since the sardine-packed passengers won't get a fare reduction, airline executives are wondering uneasily whether the public will ride in the big birds.

Note: Trans-World, American, Eastern and Northwest also have ordered 747s.

'Slaughter Season' Is About To Begin on U.S. Highways

By TOM TIEDE (NEA Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — (NEA) — According to the calendar, the slaughter season is here. From now through December, the body count will rise.

No, not in Vietnam. In the United States — on the highways.

The National Safety Council reports that the final four months of most years are the bloodiest for motorists — and this year should be no exception for the nation's 105 million drivers.

Nobody knows exactly why this is. Auto travel actually tapers off after summer months. So the authorities are left to blame it on worsening road conditions, longer evenings, back to school and so forth.

But whatever the reason, 20,000 or more people may be killed on the roads in the next four months. That would be six or seven times the expected Vietnam toll.

Another Carnage Record

Last year, setting still another record for carnage, the nation's drivers caused 55,200 deaths, 3,770,000 injuries and a staggering $11.3 billion in costs.

The National Safety Council records sketch an accurate if not very lovely — portrait of the slaughter season's expected vehicular fatalities. Most deaths will happen to vehicle drivers or passengers. According to Safety Council mathematics, a bout four times as many motor occupants are killed as pedestrians. (In 1968: 45,400 to 9,800.)

Most will happen in rural areas. Although injuries and property damage mishaps occur most frequently in urban areas, more than twice as many vehicular deaths happen outside the cities. (In 1968: 37,700 to 17,500.)

Most will happen at night. Vehicular death occurrence is actually only a few thousand more at night, in 1968: 29,300 to 25,900 but the rate per number of miles traveled is, at night, three times higher than day.

Most will happen at certain hours and days. Safety Council charts indicate evening rush hours, Saturday evening (early or late) and Sunday morning are worse. Most deadly time in general: 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Most will be caused by collisions. In 1968, some 22,500 died from vehicles colliding with vehicles, 9,800 died in collisions with pedestrians and 5,100 died in collisions with trains, bicycles, fixed objects, etc.

Most will happen off limited access roads. The federal interstate highway system, more than 25,000 miles complete, had a death rate of about 3.0 per 10,000 miles traveled in 1968; the rate for other roads was 7.5.

Most will be caused by males. There are 61.5 million male drivers and 43.4 million female drivers. Last year, they had a fatal accident rate of 84 per 10,000 drivers; the female rate was 35 for every 10,000 drivers.

Alcoholic Involvement

Many will be caused by alcoholic involvement. No figures are available (due to varying methods of accident recording) but most officials feel that drinking is a factor in at least half of all road deaths.

Many will be caused by speeding. More than three out of 10 of last year's fatalities were caused by excessive vehicle speed. "At 55 miles per hour," officials say, "a person in an accident is twice as likely to die than at 45 miles per hour."

Many will be caused by young drivers. A safety official snickers, "Never trust a driver under 30." This age group is cause for a disproportionate number of road deaths. The 20-24 bracket especially — 118 deaths per 100,000 drivers.

And, finally, according to Don Lhotka of the National Safety Council's traffic department, many accidents in the coming slaughter season will no doubt be caused by people who think they are good drivers.

Says he, sadly: "People will drive for 70 years with a spotless record and then, bang, it'll happen. It only takes one careless moment. Nobody is too good a driver to be complacent. Nobody ever outgrows the driving hazard."

Captain Pete Seeger
Editor, The Freeman
Congratulations to Alderman John Heitzman as a public official with a sense of duty and conviction in a society of compromise.

Alderman Heitzman unlike many public officials evidently has taken the time to look behind the banner of the Sloop Clearwater and its Captain Pete Seeger.

Cleaning up the Hudson is a noble and popular task, one that appeals to young and old alike. J. Edgar Hoover in his book "Masters of Deceit" outlines in detail "The Communist Trojan Horse in Action." In his chapters entitled "Infiltration" and "The Communist Front" Mr. Hoover explains how things like the sale of Christmas seals, the sale of cookbooks, and a lecture on the cure of heart disease can be used to dupe the American people.

Why not a Pied Piper of the Hudson a man who is very personable, a man who leaves you with the opinion that he is just a big good natured farmer from down the river. A man who wants to be judged only as a banjo player.

Ignore over 20 years of Communist front activity. We are to ignore his popularity with such Communist publications as The Worker, The National Guardian, and the Daily World.

Is Pete Seeger interested in cleaning up the Hudson or is he a modern Pied Piper using this cause as a front to spread an ideology that is contrary to our American way?

Have any other Aldermen taken the time to investigate Pete Seeger and his real purpose or is it unwise to speak out against a popular cause.

Drew Pearson
Editor, The Freeman

Drew Pearson personified the unique role and immense value of the individual journalist in a free society. As long as greed can influence human behavior, and as long as temptation is put in the way of a public official's devotion to duty, free men will always benefit more than they ever realize by the activities of the independent investigative reporter, the so-called "muckraker."

Most newspaper people tend to shy away from this kind of identification. But Drew Pearson did not. Speaking from my own personal experiences, I found Drew to be a man of almost Puritan rectitude, motivated by the highest idealism. He possessed a great concern for truth and accuracy, regretfully recognizing that in his particular theater of operations some error was often unavoidable.

His door and his mind were always open to everyone, down to the humblest individual. His sympathies were always with the underdog and the man in the street who had no individual political power. He was a one-man lobby for the ordinary person, in the halls of the mighty.

I know that Mr. Pearson's fight for integrity and honesty among people in public trust will be continued by his longtime associate, Jack Anderson. Mr. Anderson is a skilled and dedicated investigative reporter, with concern for hard facts and a record of many news "beats." It may not be generally known that it was his work which brought to light the activities of Senator Thomas Dodd, for which the Senator was ultimately censured. Mr. Anderson has been a devoted crusader for a strong code of ethical conduct for Representatives and Senators, and must receive credit for the small success that has been recently achieved in this area.

It is hoped that the passing of Drew Pearson will focus fresh attention on this essential and uniquely American form of journalism.

Rosendale Flood Control

Editor, The Freeman
The recent and continuing efforts of Mayor William Curran, of the Village of Rosendale, and of Paul Sturges, Stone Ridge, to force the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to abandon its design for the structures that will allow 84 locations in the village to continue to discharge raw sewage into Rondout Creek merit applause.

It is work in arousing public indignation is a bit late, alas. The plans were available for inspection a year ago, and the work starts in two weeks. In the process, however, they have revealed that the Ulster County Health Department and the office of the County Attorney as being between them unable or unwilling to attempt to stop the 100 year old practice of emptying raw sewage into the Rondout at Rosendale. Why divert attention away from our local agencies most directly charged with enforcement of pollution laws by focussing attention on the Corps of Engineers?

I wish Curran and Sturges well, yet I believe a better solution exists than what they advocate. Basically, strange as it seems, I suggest the flood control project be completed exactly as planned. In the last analysis, I feel there is more to be gained in the interests of environmental control by allowing the Rosendale Flood Control Farce to be acted out to the roar of the last bulldozer and the sight of the last hardhat emerging from a Rosendale bar.

Who calls it a farce? Just about everyone who knows something about it. The biggest boondoggle of the past half century is daily unfolding before our very eyes in the name of this project. Engineering personnel associated with the project have let it be known (privately and not for quotation) that the $100,000 spent on altering Lefever Falls will contribute 98 per cent of the "flood controlling" the overall project will furnish. The rest of the $2,900,000 is being spent for "window dressing" and to "make work" according to the men charged with its successful completion.

One observer claims that the best original idea would have been to buy the entire drab complex of stores and houses on Main Street, valued at well under a million dollars, and rip them all down... eliminating the pollution problem automatically and simultaneously. He would erect a sign reading, "Here Stood Rosendale - Died in 1910. Buried in 1969." His point: Why spend $3,000,000 of taxpayer monies to protect a dying Main Street worth less than one-third as much? His solution would also eliminate the gauntlet every driver faces when driving down Main Street (Route 213)... a bonus of considerable value in its own right.

No, the best alternative we have today is to complete the farce and assure ourselves that we have thus provided the taxpayers of this nation with an example of what never should be allowed to happen again... anywhere. To eliminate the last ridiculous chapter at this time, as Curran and Sturges would do, is to lessen the impact of what can be learned from the debacle.

Let the job be finished and then bring in the national coverage media and put Rosendale on the map by informing every thinking American of what happened and what went wrong here in 1968-1970 in the guise of flood control. Rosendale can benefit considerably by catering to the hordes of teachers and students who will arrive to study the scene... people who must be housed and fed and who come to view the great outdoor classroom known as the Rosendale Flood Control Farce.

Much will be learned by studying the debacle in such fields as economics, ecology, botany, bacteriology and environmental studies. Surely the educators and students from all levels of teaching and learning will come here to study in this outdoor laboratory. Perhaps training so they can learn how to handle human excrement in the developing nations where they will be assigned as our American ambassadors of a special sort. It more or less goes without saying that the Rosendale Farce will be covered in standard texts in many languages for classroom study.

Yes, I can think of no better place and no better lesson for the young of America than to come to Rosendale in short time and, on the hour, every hour, be permitted to watch the huge gates open that allow the accumulated human waste products behind them to empty into the once beautiful Rondout.

A lesson they shall never forget, a lesson concerning the stupidity of our generation. Please, Bill and Paul, give the next generation this opportunity to see us at our absolute worst. Maybe they will do something about it.

Respectfully,
DONALD G. ROSS

Comforter Youth Show

Editor, The Freeman
Tonight I had the opportunity to attend, as a guest, a Variety Show sponsored by The Comforter Youth Fellowship Group at the Comforter Church, Wynkoop Place, Kingston, New York.

I saw one of the most entertaining and hilarious shows that I have ever seen put on by an amateur group of kids.

As I sat there listening to the "serious" songs, I couldn't help but wonder how so many of our younger people can be involved in the use of drugs and other equally dangerous habits, when right under their noses there are Fellowship Groups such as the Comforter Church, who with a lot of fun and work can produce a night of enjoyment such as I have just witnessed. If these drug users, hippies and other so called "beautiful people" could see this show, I think maybe they would stop and realize that the group they were watching were truly receiving the God-giving meaning of life.

This variety show wasn't done for kicks. It's purpose was to raise money for their retreat to be held in Warwick, N.Y. I cannot pick out any individual performer, or give praise to certain parents whom I know worked very hard, but as a non-member of the Comforter Church, I think all who participated should be congratulated. I wish this variety show could be repeated for a larger audience. It certainly is worth seeing and hearing.

Erie Resident To Head State Magistrates

SOUTH FALLSBURG, N. Y. (UPI) — Gilbert J. Denton of Erie County has been elected president of the New York State Association of Magistrates.

Denton, village justice in Alden, succeeds Harold W. Hayward of Elmira. He was elected during the association's 60th annual convention in this Sullivan County community Tuesday night.

Named to the executive committee were Charles Schohl, Orchard Park; Herkimer County Court Judge Edmund A. McCarthy, Little Falls; Frank Getchus, Suffern; and Nicholas Bier, Cairo.

New Safety Precautions At Upstate Coed College

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Increased security measures have been placed in effect at three women's dormitories at the State University at Binghamton, where two coeds were savagely beaten by an intruder three days ago.

The new safety precautions were announced Tuesday.

Three policemen have been added to the campus security force and will be stationed at night in the three women's dorms, a spokesman for the university said. Windows on the ground level at the residences will be adjusted so they can only be opened four inches.

Delaware Hall, where the beating took place Sunday morning, will be made coed, with men on the bottom floor and women on the top two floors. The spokesman said the presence of male students on the ground level is aimed at discouraging potential intruders.

Immediately after the attack, security patrols on the campus were strengthened and Delaware Hall was temporarily evacuated.

The two attacked coeds remained hospitalized at Wilson Memorial Hospital in Johnson City. Nora Freeman, 20, of Babylon, was in serious condition and Melanie James, 20, of Glen Cove, was in fair condition.

Police said a man pried open a screen on the first floor to gain entry to Delaware Hall. He then made his way to the third floor where he found his victim's door unlocked.

Miss Freeman was beaten first, with a blunt instrument, while she was sleeping. Miss James said she awoke only when the man began hitting her. She put up a fight, biting the man's fingers and hands, but was knocked unconscious.

Police have been unable to determine a motive for the attacks.

Murder, Kidnaping Charged in Cop's Death

SHERRILL, N.Y. (AP) — a gun and fired it several times at them, point blank. He then was placed against a former Boy Scout leader Tuesday after the shooting death of a 60-year-old policeman.

The police chief of Sherrill, the state's smallest city, was critically wounded in the incident, and a woman was forced at gunpoint to drive a man the 40 miles to Syracuse.

Police said the shootings took place after a gas station robbery and two Sherrill policemen were questioning a man.

State Police said Martin J. Fitzpatrick, 33, was arrested in Syracuse and charged with kidnaping and murder.

Warrants were also being sought charging him with attempted murder in the wounding of the police chief and with robbery in connection with the service station incident.

Dead is patrolman Robert Mumford, about 60, who died in Oneida City Hospital after being shot in the chest.

Police Chief Thomas Reilly of Sherrill, president of the New York State Police Chief's Association, was in critical condition in the Oneida Hospital with chest and shoulder wounds.

The two officers were shot about 10 p.m. while questioning a man about a $500 holdup at a service station in nearby Canastota.

Dennis Fogg, 18, of Sherrill, who witnessed the shooting, said the two officers talked to the man for several minutes, then "all of a sudden, the man pulled guard at Syracuse University until last June, a school official said.

The school's employment record showed that in October 1968, Fitzpatrick lived with his family in Cayuga County, northwest of Syracuse.

Troopers said Fitzpatrick had an address in the Cayuga County Town of Ira. Residents there said that until two years ago Fitzpatrick had been active in Boy Scouts and Little League.

Frank Trobb, one of Sherrill's three full-time policemen, said Mumford apparently halted the car and then Reilly came to as-

He said the man in the car had been cooperative and agreed to wait for the service station attendant to arrive, but suddenly pulled a gun and started shooting.

Mumford was found sitting on the ground next to his patrol car, the side of the vehicle splattered with blood. Reilly was found in his car.

Police said there was no evidence that the policemen had returned fire. They said Reilly's pistol was found on the ground.

Sherrill, with a population of about 3,000, is midway between Syracuse and Rochester.

Fate of Hotel To Be Discussed

HUDSON
The fate of the historic General Worth Hotel will be the topic at a public hearing to be staged by the Hudson River Valley Commission Monday in Hudson.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Hudson Junior High School, 401 State Street.

The hotel was built in 1837 and was a center of the city's social and cultural life in the booming days of the mid-19th century when Hudson was a major river port. An outstanding example of Greek Revival architecture, the hotel is considered the oldest city hotel remaining in the United States.

The hotel was closed six years ago and the structure was taken over by the city for back taxes. City officials consider the empty building a hazard and wish to demolish it. Protests have come from historians, architects and officials of the New York State Historic Trust. The state historic trust has offered to pay 50 per cent of renovation cost to any responsible organization which comes up with a plan to save the building.

REPRIMANDED — L.T. (J.G.)

James A. Hopson, 28, of Kansas City, Kan., has been let off with an official reprimand for his part in the collision of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans and the Australian carrier Melbourne. Hopson was the junior officer on the bridge of the destroyer in which 74 of his shipmates died when the Melbourne sliced the Evans in half. The captain of the Evans, Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore, and the senior deck officer, Lt. (j.g.) Ronald C. Ramsey, still face courts-martial charges in connection with the collision.

Traffic Club Meets Tonight

POUGHKEEPSIE

The Mid-Hudson Traffic Club of the Hudson Valley will hold its monthly dinner meeting tonight at Aloy's Garden Restaurant, Poughkeepsie.

Dinner will be at 7:30 according to Walter C. Pine, program chairman.

First Mayoral ...

he had called for the end of the program in 1967 "if it doesn't get moving." He said he went to New York City that summer to "find ways to get the program moving."

In summation, the two major party candidates returned to the subject of finances with Koenig stating that a five million dollar corporation (the city budget) "cannot be run in the red."

"You need money to work with so that you can reduce bonded indebtedness," Tyrrell said he would not allow extravagant surpluses, in apparent reference to the $19,435 surplus in the 1968 budget.

Massive Dragnet for Kidnapers, Free Woman on $200,000 Ransom

TORONTO (UPI) — Ontario provincial police had a massive dragnet out today for the kidnapers who held a young woman for almost 48 hours before releasing her on payment of $200,000 ransom.

Police roadblocks were mounted throughout a 150-mile radius in the holiday and resort area of the Muskoka Lakes region, north of here, where the ransom was delivered early Tuesday.

Tight-lipped police refused to identify the kidnapping victim for "reasons of public safety." They said the victim, who was returned "unharmed," and her husband were under police guard.

A terse statement from police said the kidnapping occurred late Sunday at the couple's home at Claremont, Ont., a community north of Toronto. Police said the couple arrived at their home late at night and were "bound and gagged." The number of persons behind the kidnapping was not revealed. "The woman was abducted and a ransom demanded," police said.

The husband followed directions laid down and waited until the early hours of the (Monday) morning, and went to a relative's home and obtained the $200,000 demanded by the abductors.

The husband received periodic instructions throughout the day by telephone and followed them explicitly. Police said they were not called in until after the woman was released. "Tuesday he again received further instructions which he adhered to, and the $200,000 was left in a location that had been described to him in the area of Foote's Bay in the Muskoka Lakes district," police said. Foote's Bay is approximately 150 miles north of Toronto. He was later advised by telephone where his wife could be located," the police statement ended, "and on arriving there, revealed about her treatment at the hands of her abductors. The It was not immediately disclosed exactly where the woman up the ransom money was similarly withheld.

Noise Regulations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John A. Shaffer, head of the Federal Aviation Administration, says the government may have to subsidize the airline industry for reducing the noise of jet airplanes. He gave no details on what a subsidy program would cost. Shaffer said the FAA's noise regulations for the planned generation of jumbo jetliners are nearly ready, but he said, it would be "next year" before noise regulations on jetliners already in service would be published.

GOP Headquarters Opens

The opening of Republican Headquarters on Partition Street in Saugerties recently was accompanied by music and an overflow crowd.

About 100 Saugerties residents attended the opening and many had to stand on the sidewalk in order to hear the comments of the candidates and dignitaries.

It was noted that some prominent members of the Conservative and Democratic parties were also present and wished the Town Republican candidates success in the November election. This gave rise to the speculation that this campaign could see the creation of Conservative and Democrats for the election of Town Republican candidates, GOP chairman Donald McCaig said.

The festivities at the opening of the GOP Headquarters were planned by Eugene Davis, and Paul Pavlovich introduced the candidates and dignitaries. Town Chairman McCaig cut the ribbon officially opening the headquarters and predicted total victory in November.

Louis P. Francello, chairman of the County Republican Advisory Committee, commented on the enthusiasm evident among party members and reflected that the GOP had gotten a "transfusion of young blood." County Republican Chairman Albert Spada predicted a clean sweep for the Saugerties GOP. Assemblyman H. Clark Bell noted the eager enthusiasm of the crowd and stated that he looked forward to returning to Saugerties GOP Headquarters on Election night and celebrating the "return of responsible government." Peter Savago, chairman of the Ulster

Dartball Scores

Five teams won 2 to 1 splits in opening games of Saugerties Dartball League Monday night. They include Quarryville over Centerville; Golden Eagles over Centerville; Vois; Cementon Sportsmen over Bonelli's Pizzeria; Trinity over West Camp and High Woods over St. Mary's.

Who Dunit

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — The federal government will pay for information leading to the conviction of persons who dump refuse in navigable waters.

This information came to light as local, state and federal officials tried to find out who dumped a garbage-truck load of refuse into the Hudson River north of Troy late in August.

The federal law prohibiting such dumping calls for a fine not exceeding $2,500 nor less than $500, or by imprisonment or both, with one-half of the fine to be paid to the "persons or persons giving information which shall lead to conviction."

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Democratic Picnic

SAUGERTIES Club of Saugerties and 36 of their members attended. A record crowd turned out for the Saugerties Democratic Club's annual picnic held at Asbury Park Sunday. It was a good old fashioned family picnic, just lots of good food, swimming contests, diving contests, and all kinds of games. Children and adults participated in sack races, potato races, wheelbarrow races, dodge ball games, soft ball games and even a balloon blowing contest.

All the Democratic candidates were present and introduced including: Supervisor Michael Schovel (who's birthday was celebrated all day); County Legislators Paul Brazier and Richard Thornton; Howard Wittenbecher and Walter Keefe, candidates for Councilman; Mrs. Ann Marie Van Etten, for receiver of taxes; and Anthony Rizzo, for superintendent of highways.

Mrs. Rose Hogan, vice chairman of the County Democratic Committee and Dr. Frieda Martens, state committeewoman were also present. A special invitation was extended to the Senior Citizens

Sing Out Event

Sing Out Saugerties, in its first fund-raising endeavor, will sponsor a bake sale Saturday starting at 9 a.m., in an effort to raise money for equipment. Members of Sing Out Saugerties will be on hand at the Empire, Grand Union and Victory Supermarkets in Saugerties with homemade baked goods.

Sing Out Saugerties needs a P. A. system, music, uniforms and materials for risers. Other fund-raising activities planned by Sing Out Saugerties include a car wash, candy sale and Amish dinner, at later dates.

In the SERVICE

Listen Here, Veteran

Your children born overseas during your tour of duty should have a record of their United States citizenship. If you have not obtained their records, prompt action now could avert possible complications for them later in life.

Were you a high school drop out before entering service? Now that you're discharged you can go back to high school with financial assistance without reducing your eligibility for college study under the GI Bill.

Get the facts on these and other veteran benefits by contacting the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency at the County Office Building, Kingston.

Pointing out that this drive for funds is in addition to any contributions which might have been made previously, Braun stressed the numerous demands

Raif-Narum Nuptials Are Announced

Miss Mary Lue Raif, an instructor at Ulster County Community College, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Raif of 2 Holmes Road, Rochester, became the bride of Leslie F. Narum Jr. of Tulsa, Oklahoma, son of Mrs. Edith S. Narum, 1180 Grove Street, Clearwater, Fla., Saturday, Sept. 6 at John Knox Presbyterian Church, Rochester.

The Rev. Robert F. Stevens officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a full length gown and train of peau de soie, styled with a Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The bodice was trimmed with re-embroidered Chantilly lace, accented with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her fingertip illusion veil was attached to a band of lace and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, baby's breath and ivy.

Mrs. Philip Chirico, sister of the bride, Rochester was matron of honor. Attendants were Mrs. Robert Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Oest Engelbecht and Mrs. Terence Coots, both cousins of the bride of Rochester. Mrs. Chirico and Mrs. Anderson wore wine colored, full length gowns with empire waistlines, scooped necklines and long full sleeves. Mrs. Coots and Mrs. Engelbecht wore identical gowns of dark gold. All attendants carried fall bouquets of bearded wheat, wine and gold chrysanthemums, grapes and ivy.

Robert L. Anderson of Jacksonville, Fla. was best man. Ushers were Thomas O. Muller II, Nashville, Tenn.; Daniel R. Walbourn, Tampa, Fla.; and John W. Raif, brother of the bride, Rochester.

Andrew Coots of Rochester was ringbearer. He wore a wine velvet suit with a ruffled shirt and white knee length socks.

The bride received her BS degree in 1965 from State University of New York at Brockport and is now working on her Masters degree at Brockport. She is an instructor of health and physical education at Ulster County Community College.

Her husband attended Florida State University and plays professional baseball with Tulsa, Oklahoma "Oilers" of American Association. He has played with Rochester "Red Wings," Baltimore "Orioles" and Washington "Senators."

Mr. and Mrs. Narum Jr. will reside at Woodstock.

MRS. LESLIE F. NARUM JR.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise:

When your window shades wear out, don't throw them away. Just strip them down to the bare rod, discard the torn shade, and use that same rod to hang your new curtains on.

I just hem the new ones wide enough to fit the larger rod. You'll be surprised how easily your spunkin' new curtains will glide along too. Cafe curtains look especially attractive on these rods.

And what is rally nice is that the brackets for the rods are already up!

Marie E. Sweeney

Bless you, Marie, for sharing this little gem with us.

The curtains slide on so easily. Besides, you're using what's on hand. And that's good for the budget.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I love to bake — but hate to clean up. The thought of a counter full of dirty dishes has often kept me from even starting.

But no more!

I've found that filling the sink with hot sudsy water BEFORE I start works wonders. As I empty each utensil, I slip it into the water to soak.

When my goodies are done, my dishes are clean. A quick swipe with a dishrag, a rinse, a wipe and I'm finished.

Margaret Shauers

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

If troubles and worry ever get you down, here is a suggestion I have used and taught to my children.

Take a small bottle of water and put in a half teaspoon of soil. When troubles get you up tight, just shake it up, watch it start to settle, and know that life will clear up the same way if we give it time.

All our homes have a trouble bottle and they're used quite often.

Mrs. R.O.R.

Dear Heloise:

When my girls were babies (fourteen months apart) we had to do a lot of traveling. In order to conserve space, I took the playpen along to sleep both of them in.

Of course they rolled and tumbled on one another and were constantly waking up, so we borrowed Grammy's ironing board and stuck it through the middle slats of the playpen.

An extra table leaf would do as well.

Just like having twin beds!

Doris Leabo

Dear Heloise:

I am a widow who travels a lot to visit friends and relatives.

It has always bothered me that the only identification I carry in my wallet connects me to an empty house. If by chance there should be an accident, there would be no one there to contact.

Now, I make a card with the name, address, and phone number of the people I am going to visit and carry this along in my wallet. After the trip I tear this up, then do the same the next time that I go traveling.

Tiny Tips

Cut the upper portion from a bleach jug or bottle and store in the car. Should the need for a funnel arise, you have an emergency one that can be thrown away after use.

Celery can be bleached snow white in two weeks by wrapping a newspaper around it. Place a couple of rubber bands around the paper to hold it in place. When you remove the paper from a bleached stalk, move up the row to the next unwrapped stalk and wrap it, leaving just the tops or the upper leaves of the stalks sticking out about two or three inches above the paper.

Pan brown pork chops and place them in a shallow casserole. Add canned baked beans around the chops and pour two tablespoons of maple syrup over the top. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

'If I Were Your Decorator' - - - Some Tips for Newlyweds

"If I were your decorator," says Mary Kraft, Home Building and Decorating Editor of Good Housekeeping, "I would first call a meeting with you and your husband to get some basic guidelines established." "Actually you and your husband can organize your thinking without a decorator, but either way you need mutual agreement on budget, style and color preferences."

Through years of counseling young marrieds on decorating basics and trends, Miss Kraft has learned that many new brides feel inadequate. Their mothers may have taught them how to cook, and they have learned fashion and beauty judgment on their own, but home furnishing is largely an untried area. Yet as soon as a girl puts a "Mrs." in front of her name, says Miss Kraft, her husband assumes she knows how to furnish their home or apartment.

The magazine's home decorating staff has accumulated a vast reservoir of experience from covering the annual or semi-annual markets which show the latest and newest in furniture, carpets, draperies, lamps and other home furnishing essentials, as well as from plant visits to inspect how furniture and furnishings are made. Miss Kraft herself is an architect as well as a decorator and a member of the American Institute of Decorators, National Society of Interior Decorators and the Architectural League. This wealth of expertise is passed along to the public through monthly magazine features and authoritative booklets on major aspects of home furnishing and decoration.

You can have an attractive home on practically any budget, according to Miss Kraft, if you plan intelligently and spend wisely.

Begin with a general idea of how much you can afford to spend, and keep that total budget in mind as you consider specific items. There is no rule about what you should spend for each piece, but there are some general rules for buying. Major pieces of furniture are long-range investments that will undoubtedly move with you to other homes. Therefore, they should be of good quality. Buy well-designed and well-made sofas, upholstered chairs, dining table, beds, etc.

If you must economize somewhere, buy inexpensive rugs, curtains and draperies, since these may not fit floor and window areas of future homes. Remember to budget for accessories such as lamps, candlesticks and mirrors, since they add homelike warmth to your rooms.

Before embarking on your buying program, there is much homework to be done. First, agree with your husband on the basic kind of home you want — all modern, all traditional, or a contemporary combination of the two. Decide whether it will be a home especially geared for entertaining requiring plenty of seating space and enough little tables, or one designed mainly for family and children. If you and your husband both have jobs, easy care becomes an important consideration.

After settling on the general style of home you want, color is the next important consideration. First, eliminate all the colors you or your husband dislike, then see whether the favorite colors of each of you can be worked into a harmonious scheme.

The next step is to shop around. It's not yet time to start ordering, but it is time to start collecting samples, swatches, measurements and costs. Buy yourself a looseleaf notebook in which to keep them. Then go "just looking." Collect all the samples of carpet, fabric, etc. that appeal to you. If you see a sofa you like, note size, price and description and the name of the store you saw it in. Get color chips at the paint store. Don't buy anything until you (1) know definitely what every major purchase will be, (2) have chosen a specific wall color, and (3) have totaled up all the costs.

Since it is hard for novices to judge quality furniture, it is wise even on a limited budget to buy major pieces by well-known manufacturers at a reliable store. Before you actually buy, you and your husband together should inspect and try out chair, couches and beds to be sure they are comfortable as well as attractive.

Remember that what you look at in the store is a floor sample. Your piece will frequently be ordered from the factory or warehouse, and perhaps made up especially for you. Therefore, you must be prepared to wait six or eight weeks for delivery.

Keep accessories in mind as you go along so that you don't run out of money before you get to the small extras which can provide individuality and interesting accents to your rooms.

Professional decorating advice is available from furniture and department stores at no cost to you. But, advises Miss Kraft, if you do decide to take advantage of this service, consult the decorator at the beginning — not halfway through. And be frank about your budget so that the advice you get will be practical for your needs.

MARY KRAFT — After a decorating feature at Good Housekeeping has been researched, products reviewed and the article planned, home building and decorating editor Mary Kraft goes on location with the camera crew into private homes, store showrooms or studios to photograph illustrations of the ideas presented. "Photography is a key aspect of our work," says Miss Kraft, "because it enables us to depict editorially the best of America's taste."

Marriage Told

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Adsit of Shokan announce the marriage of their daughter, Patricia Diane, to Burton William Wilcke Jr. on Saturday, August 30, at the Lutheran Church on Western Avenue, Albany.

Patricia Diane is a graduate of the Ontario Central School, Boiceville, and has been employed at the Albany Medical Center. Mr. Wilcke is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Burton Wilcke of Rensselaer, and is a graduate of the Albany Academy, and Hartwick College, and will be a graduate student at Wagner College in Staten Island. They are making their home in Staten Island.

Rebuilding Is Theme at Kingston High

ONE ON ONE — Backfield Coach Tony Badalato of the Kingston High School football team looks on quizzically as two Maroon hopefuls do a one-on-one in the pre-season workouts now under way. (Freeman photo by Haines).

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON Hit hard by graduation, the Kingston High School football team faces a rebuilding year this season. Coach Frank Modica's Maroons lost 20 lettermen, including 10 starters from last year's squad that posted a 5-3 overall record and tied Newburgh for the DUSO League crown with a 2-1 mark.

Kingston opens at home Saturday, Sept. 22, against Johnstown.

Football coaches all over the country will tell you that one of the main ingredients for a winning season is a surplus of experienced ball players. And, Modica is no different than any other coach in his feelings on this matter.

"We feel that we have some fine, young ballplayers," he said, "but we lack the big ingredient needed in football, that being experience. We also lack depth in various positions. However, if the young players come along as expected, we will have a pretty good team," said Modica.

The Maroons' coach concluded, "We do have some fine talent coming back, however, and we will try to blend the younger players in with the veterans. We will make mistakes because, for the most part, we will be young. But don't count us out."

Lose 4 All-DUSO's

The Maroons were hit hard as four All-DUSO selections were lost via the graduation route. They were: John Berardi, tackle; the late Mike Hoffman, quarterback (Mike was fatally injured in a car accident this past winter); Steve Beverly, linebacker and Pete Helmich, fullback.

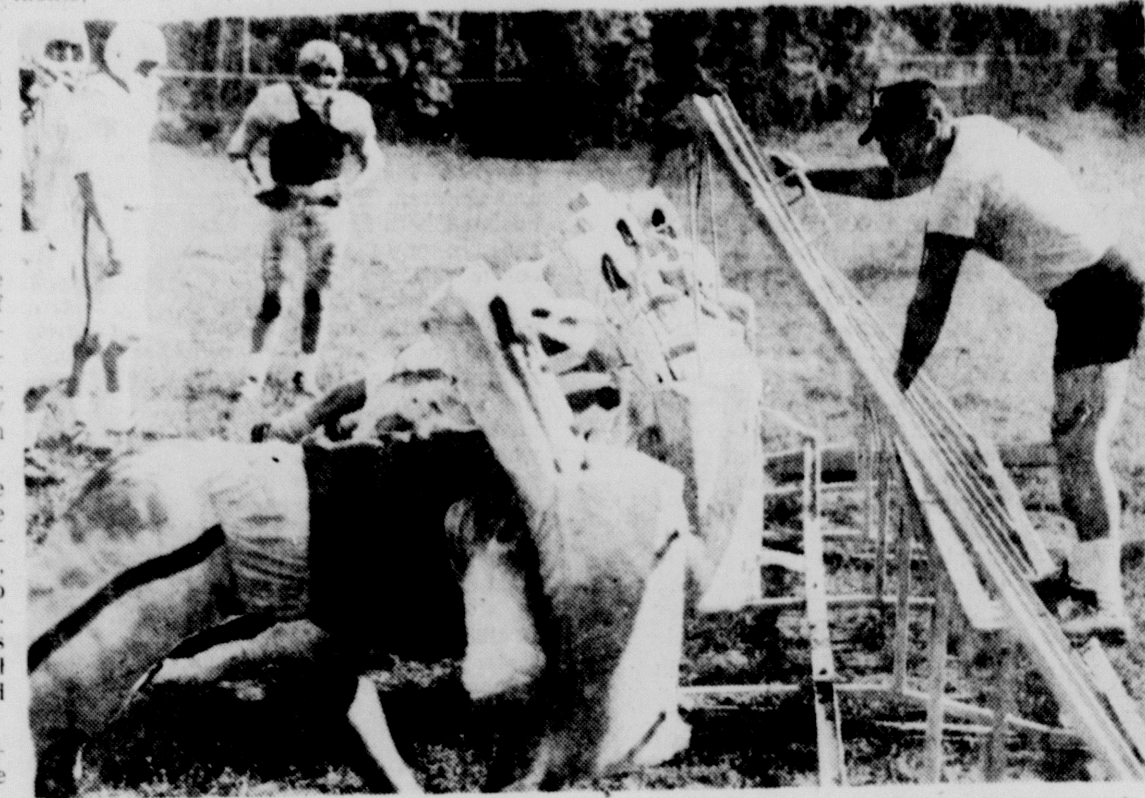

Among those others who are gone from the starting team are: Mike Perry, guard; Kevin Murphy, center; Joe Holland, end; Fred Kachura, end, and Greg Rios, defensive end.

It goes without saying that their collective losses will be felt quite heavily.

However, Modica points out that he also has some fine returning ball players and he is right. The question is whether or not they can form a big enough nucleus from which to build.

Three fine ball players, who were also all-league selections last year, head the contingent of returning grid hopefuls. Dale Whitman, an all-league pick at tight end, heads the list. Whitman is five feet, 11 inches, weighs about 195 pounds and is bruiser who may just be the Marshall Byrd, rated by many as one of the best backs in the 12.2 yards per carry. He stands 5-5 and weighs 152 pounds. Modica feels that Byrd can get the blocking, he will be a sure bet to repeat last year's performance and could even go on to bigger and better feats on the gridiron.

THE BIG PUSH — Head Coach Frank Modica looks on intently to make sure that unidentified KHS football linemen give their all against the mechanical device, as Maroon drills get under way. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Rumors heard around the town seem to indicate the Maroons may have a real "sleeper" at the quarterback spot.

Ricky Sorenson saw action at that position last year behind Hoffman, but lettered at line-backer. Sorenson is 5-9 and tips the scales at 170 pounds. Sorenson has the ability to lead his team and has a good head for play-calling. If he can fill the void left by Hoffman, and there is every indication that he can, Kingston's football stock will go up a few more points.

Other Candidates

Other returnees and candidates are: Tony Ciconia, full-back and middle linebacker; Tim Palen, center; Bill Attenwerler, guard; George Geanuleas, halfback; Ray Rhodes, tackle; Paul Sailoff, splitend; Ron White, guard; Larry Pappillo, transfer from Coleman, defensive end; Jesse Adams, halfback; Kevin Crosby, center, middle linebacker; Bob Markis, defensive halfback; John Tiano, fullback, center linebacker.

If Modica can keep mistakes that younger players always make at a minimum, plus get a maximum effort out of his returning veterans, Kingston will be right near the top. If not at the top of the DUSO League and will be aiming at a fine season overall.

Cleveland - Dallas Showdown Looms

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It looks like another Cleveland-Dallas showdown in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League this season, the last before the Browns move over into the American League in the 1970 merger.

The Browns appear to have too much for the St. Louis Cardinals, their main contenders in the Century Division and the Cowboys should have no serious trouble in the Capitol Division.

When the Browns and Cowboys meet in the Cotton Bowl, Sunday, Dec. 28 for the Eastern title, Dallas probably will be favored again but Cleveland is the likely winner.

Here's the way it looks from here:

Century Division

1. Cleveland
2. St. Louis
3. New York
4. Pittsburgh

Capitol Division

1. Dallas
2. Washington
3. Philadelphia
4. New Orleans

The Browns have the two-time rushing champ in Leroy Kelly, a solid offensive line, a capable passer in Bill Nelsen and fine receivers despite the injury to Milt Morin. Blanton Collier has a sound, well-disciplined team despite the 34-0 disaster against Baltimore last December. Rookie Ron Johnson, although handicapped by a late start, should make up for the loss of retired Ernie Green.

The Cardinals suffered a severe setback when Chuck La-tourrette, their excellent punter and kick return specialist had to undergo knee surgery in August. Jackie Smith and John Gilliam obtained from New Orleans, are fine targets for Char-lev Johnson or Jim Hart who has been out of action with a broken finger.

New York, has been slow coming around due to injuries to the offensive line. With Tucker Frederickson rounding into form and Allie Sherman's shuffle of Freeman White and Aaron Thomas beginning to work out, the club has the attack to make trouble. Fran Tarkenton's talents will be wasted unless the defense manages to rush the enemy passer.

Pittsburgh's last year in the old NFL (They shift to the AFL division in 1970 with Cleveland and Baltimore) looks like another cellar finish although new coach Chuck Noll expects improvement. Rookie Joe Greene should help the defense that allowed 397 points last year.

Despite the retirements of Don Meredith and Don Perkins, the Cowboys seem to have too much for the opposition in the Coastal Division. Craig Morton gets his big chance and Calvin Hill, the rookie from Yale, has been a pleasant surprise although the injury to Dan Reeves hurts.

Vince Lombardi's first year as head man at Washington hinges on Sonny Jurgensen and the fine pass receivers. They could challenge the Cowboys if Morton doesn't come through.

The Eagles have a new owner, a new general manager and a new coach and, unfortunately have traded away Bob Brown, bulwark of the offensive line. Coach Jerry Williams, brought down from Canada as successor to Joe Kuharich, needs another Tom Woodes-like in the backfield.

Tom Fears' New Orleans Saints could move up a peg to third place if all the experiments work out. The Saints can be tough but lack depth to play consistently all year. Rookie quarterback Ed Hargett may be a sleeper.

Adios Annie Winner

Adios Annie withstood a late drive by C. P. Tootsie to win the $1,500 feature at Monticello Raceway Tuesday night.

The winner, reined by George Gilmour, paced the mile in 2:08.4 and paid $6.20, $5.50 and $2.60. Walkkill Missy showed.

The winning time was a career record for Adios Annie. Her best previous time was a 2:10 flat clocking at Brandywine.

Tuesday night, she proved the best of the field when she started in the No. 1 hole and never gave up the lead despite intense competition by Walkkill Missy and Some Adam reined by Ken Heeney.

The 4-5 pairing of Little Rebel and Smart Fella returned $15.60 in the daily double.

A crowd of 2,068 bet $173,072.

Saratoga Winner

Yankee Bet won the $1,500 feature at Saratoga Raceway by a half length over Cloudy Night in 2:07.4 for the mile pace.

The winner paid $28.40, $7 and $4.60. Monsieur Richelieu was third. The 2-3 double of Talla and Seaway paid $77.60.

A crowd of 2,396 bet $169,095. At Roosevelt Raceway, Kammy's A. Oakley won the featured purse by three-quarters of a length.

John Chapman reined the winner, who returned a $5.40 mutuel for ticking off the mile in 2:03.4.

A.C.'s Dandy finished second and Aust. Southern Silver was third.

Supreme Rock and Almax combined for a 3-5 daily double worth $41.40.

Two Sires Stakes

In other racing, Mr. Ace and Adios Bob each won a New York Sires Stakes at Batavia Downs.

UCCC Names Vizvary Varsity Soccer Coach

STONE RIDGE

George E. Vizvary, a former soccer star in his native Hungary, has been appointed head coach of the sport at Ulster County Community College.

GEORGE VIZVARY

Kenneth J. Wolf, Director of Athletics, has announced.

Vizvary, who is a member of the UCCC faculty, served as assistant coach under Wolf in the 1968 season.

Vizvary's lifelong association with soccer started in Hungary. He played several years in national league competition and in 1954 was elected to represent Hungary on the national team.

Upon arriving in the United States, he became one of the founders of the Kingston Sport Club and captained the original Kickers for the first five years of the organization.

During those years, the Sport Club booters won 50 games in succession and five consecutive championships in the Central New York Soccer Association. He was a standout player and represented the team and league in several all stars contests.

His playing career was curtailed because of injuries. Vizvary's first year at the UCCC will mark the Denny Moyer, 160, Portland, second season of intercollegiate soccer activity for the Senators, er, 156, Los Angeles, 9.

The schedule has been increased from six games to 10, with the opener slated Sept. 30 at Orange County Community College.

Wolf said the soccer team will play its home games at the Marbletown school where a field is now being prepared.

"There is a fine, natural area for a soccer field there," said Wolf. "We plan to play on a field about 120 feet by 65 feet. Eventually, we will have our own field on campus."

New Cry at Shea Is 'Goodbye, Leo'

(By The Associated Press)

Spitball charges, chants of "goodbye Leo," and a winning single by a kid who wants to stay in the big time. That's the good old National League for you.

En route to the outfield in the second inning Tuesday night, Cincinnati's Pete Rose complained to umpire Andy Olsen that Gaylord Perry was throwing spitballs. Out of the game went Rose, seven innings later down went the Reds, 7-4, to San Francisco, and back into first in the NL West went the Giants.

Manager Leo Durocher sat in a Shea Stadium dugout, listened to chants of "Goodbye Leo, Goodbye Leo," and watched his Chicago Cubs lose to New York 7-1, have their NL East lead cut to one-half game and actually fall a game behind the Mets in the loss column.

"I hope these hits I'm getting mean I can stay up here a while," said Ralph Garr after his run-scoring pinch single in the 10th inning gave Atlanta a 2-1 victory over Los Angeles and moved the Braves past the Dodgers into third in the West, 1½ games back of San Francisco and a game behind Cincinnati.

Cardinals Win
In other NL action, Houston trounced San Diego 9-2 to move to within three games of the top in the West. Montreal downed Pittsburgh 4-2 and St. Louis took Philadelphia 6-2.

Baltimore beat Washington 6-1 and 3-2, Detroit blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Baltimore topped Cleveland 3-1, Minnesota outlasted California 11-7 and Kansas City edged Oakland 2-1 in the American League. The Chicago White Sox and Seattle were not scheduled. Willie McCovey's 42nd homer, with Willie Mays aboard with a single, in the seventh snapped a 1-1 tie, and the Giants added four more runs in the seventh on two doubles, a walk and three singles enabled the Giants to replace the Reds in first place.

"All I said was 'Why don't you do your job and check the ball when a complaint is made,'" Rose said of the comment that led to his early exit. But Perry still was around at the end as he boosted his record to 17-12.

The Mets, who have won two fewer games and lost one less than the Cubs, gave Tom Seaver, 21-7, two runs in the first inning. Seaver went on to pitch a five-hitter, and the Mets went on to batter Ferguson Jenkins, 19-13, for five more runs, two coming on Donn Clendenon's homer and one on Art Shamsky's homer.

Longest Losing Streak
The defeat gave the Cubs their longest losing streak of the season, six straight.

Garr's hit drove in Sonny Jackson, who was hit by a pitch and sacrificed to second, and made Phil Niekro the Braves' first 20-game winner since they moved to Atlanta. He has lost 12.

One of the six hits for the Dodgers, now two games out of first, was Ted Sizemore's lead-off homer in the fourth. Atlanta tied the game and broke a 19-inning scoreless streak in the seventh when Hank Aaron singled and scored on Rico Carty's double.

Jim Wynn's three-run homer, his 30th, sparked a five-run Houston fifth and helped Larry Dierker become the first Astro pitcher ever to win 19 games. Dierker, who has lost 10, pitched a two-hitter until the ninth when Jerry Morales singled with two out and scored on Ivan Murrell's homer.

Pittsburgh, third in the East, 6½ games out, had its four-game winning streak snapped by Montreal as Bob Bailey drove in two runs with a double and a sacrifice fly and Coco Laboy hit a two-run homer to back up Steve Renko's five-hit pitching.

St. Louis got a big game from rookie Jerry DaVannon—two doubles, two RBI and two runs scored—in beating Philadelphia.

In American League action, Mike Cuellar, who has lost 10 games, posted his 21st victory in Baltimore's first game, triumph over the Senators. Cuellar pitched a six-hitter and had a shutout until the ninth.

In the second game, Mark Belanger snapped a 2-2 tie with a run-scoring single in the fourth to provide the Orioles with their winning margin. Frank Bertina relieved winner Tom Phoebus in the sixth inning with the bases loaded and two out and retired pinchhitter Ed Stroud on a pop fly and blanked the Senators the final three innings.

Run-scoring singles by Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning and Vicente Romo lost his shutout in the fourth when Tony Horton hit his 26th homer of the year.

Mike Kilkenny pitched an eight-hitter and the Tigers took advantage of Fritz Peterson's first-inning wildness to score two runs and beat the Yankees. After giving up a single to Mickey Stanley and a double to Tom Tresh, Peterson wild pitched Stanley home and then Tresh scored the only other run of the game when a Peterson pitch in the dirt eluded catcher Thurman Munson for a passed ball.

SAFE RETURN — Art Shamsky of the Mets crawls toward second base ahead of the ball after he was caught in a rundown in the third inning of game with Cubs at Shea Stadium. Shamsky was safe when Cubs Second Baseman Gil Beckert (L) dropped the throw from First Baseman Willie Smith (25). (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Mrs. Payson Shows Gil How It Is; With a Kiss

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Joan Payson burst into Gil Hodges' press conference, ex-cused herself for interrupting and then threw her ample arms around the manager of the New York Mets.

"Oh," the Mets' principal owner bubbled, "it's just so wonderful. We're all so happy." The subject of Mrs. Payson's joy was not just the Mets' 7-1 romp over Chicago Tuesday night that moved New York to within one-half game of the crumbling Cubs in the National League's East Division pennant race.

It also was a burst of accumulated emotion over the sudden and stunning success of her eight-year-old franchise, which for so long has been the biggest joke around the National League.

The Mets, believe it or not, are contending for a pennant. Yes, the Mets.

They wear the same uniforms that Casey Stengel and Rod Kanehl and Mary Throneberry and Elio Chacon once wore. But there is one important difference. These Mets win. These Mets aren't very funny to the rest of the National League.

"I remember when I played for Pittsburgh," said Donn Clendenon, who made Tuesday's key victory a little easier with a two-run homer.

"We'd come into New York feeling we were going to win a series. We were playing the Mets and we knew they'd make a mistake—mental or otherwise and we'd take advantage and win."

Suddenly, the shoe is on the other foot and it pinches. Tuesday night, moments before Clendenon hit his homer, Art Shamsky was trapped in a rundown but slid safely into second.

Browns Drop Frank Ryan

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Frank Ryan, the quarterback who directed the Cleveland Browns to the National Football League championship in 1964, was released by the team Tuesday.

The Browns announced Ryan had been placed on waivers, and not claimed by any other team. He became a free agent, and was expected to try to make a deal with some other NFL team.

The Browns also gave up Charlie Harraway, a halfback in his fourth season with the club. He was placed on waivers and claimed by the Washington Redskins.

The two transactions reduced the Browns' roster to 44.

Ryan, 33, was in his 12th year of NFL competition. After his graduation from Rice, he spent four seasons of sharing the quarter-backing duties with the Los Angeles Rams. He came to Cleveland in a trade in July, 1962.

Ryan took over the quarter-backing job in the middle of the 1962 season. In five full seasons as a regular, he led Cleveland to the NFL championship in 1964, an Eastern Conference title, a Century Division crown, and two second place conference finishes.

But last season, when the Browns failed to move the ball well in three early games, Coach Blanton Collier replaced Ryan with Bill Nelsen, who sparked the club to the conference championship.

Ryan, who holds 11 Browns records and has thrown 136 touchdown passes for the team, became expendable when the team acquired Jerry Rhyme from the Cowboys this winter. Rhyme, 27, is younger by six years.

Harraway, used mostly as a sub in his first two seasons, was the second leading rusher on the club last year with 91 carries and 334 yards. A knee injury slowed him up at training camp, and he lost the fullback job to Ron Hohnson, the first draft choice from Michigan.

In other football news, the Buffalo Bills announced that 152-4, Las Vegas, knocked out Hsiao Minami, 149½ Japan. Schottenheimer were placed on waivers.

Wrong Place For a Snooze

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (AP) — Lewis E. Wallace was just taking a nap today, but he chose the wrong place. Wallace, 58, of Ogdensburg, pulled his automobile onto the lawn of a judge who lives near here and fell asleep. State Police said. He was arrested early today on a charge of third-degree criminal trespassing. Town Justice Glenn Minnick of DeKalb, 18 miles south of here, telephoned police upon discovering the car. Minnick was jailed, pending arraignment.

Dear Abby

She Is 'Off Limits'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a married man with a family. I work for my father-in-law who owns some apartment buildings, and some evenings a week I do some rent-collecting for him.

About a year ago a woman (about 40) moved into one of his flats. She is a physical therapist and holds the rank of Captain in the WAF. She has never been married.

Although I don't "love" her, I find her to be a very exciting woman. She is intelligent and interesting and has been all over the world. By contrast, my wife (whom I really love) seems very dull and uninteresting.

My problem is that the Captain now demands that I see her more often than just on my rent-collecting nights. She says if I refuse she will tell my wife about us. My wife doesn't suspect anything, but she has already threatened to complain to her father that he has been "over-working" me. What should I do?

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS
DEAR SLEEPLESS: Next time you go "rent collecting," collect only the rent, and tell the Captain that she is "off limits." I would bet against her telling your wife. But if she does, you can expect to be "worked over" instead of over-worked. But take it like a man. It's still better than submitting to blackmail.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard that my daughter has been telling friends that when she goes to work I will baby-sit for her. (She's divorcing her husband.)

This is quite a surprise to me because she hasn't asked ME yet. I guess she just takes me for granted.

I have been a widow for 22 years and I have worked hard to send my four children thru college. I am not rich, but I don't need baby-sitting money to eat. Now that I am in my sixties, frankly, I am tired, and I think I've earned the right to take life a little easier.

How can I tell my daughter of my decision when she hasn't even ASKED me yet? She starts her job in five weeks. Should I come right out and tell her if she's depending on me, she'd better line up someone else because Grandma isn't sitting anymore?

TIED
DEAR TIED: It's unfortunate that you and your daughter don't have a better communication system. Don't provide answers for unasked questions. If and when she asks you, speak your piece.

DEAR ABBY: Do you know what a real friend is? It's someone who cares enough about your feelings to spare you as much pain as possible. Example:

Our 29-year-old daughter and her husband, after nine years of marriage, decided to get a divorce. They have two darling children. Fortunately, it will not be one of those messy affairs. They quietly made their decision and told us (first) that they plan to announce it next week. Of course we were shocked and heartsick that their marriage ended this way, but they assured us they tried hard to make a go of it, but it was hopeless.

Not wishing my dearest friend to hear it from outsiders, I told her in confidence this afternoon. Her only comment was, "Thank you for telling me."

She didn't say "Oh, how terrible!" Or, "WHAT HAPPENED?" Or, "Aren't you just sick about it?" Or, "Oh, those poor children!"

When I left her, I thanked her for her considerate reaction to the news I gave her. Her only remark was, "What else is their to say? It's your daughter's business, and being an intelligent girl, she has given her decision much thought. I am sure."

Now, Abby, THERE is a friend for you.

SINCERELY,
GRATEFUL

Safety Play Plays It Safe

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The correct way to play a hand is not necessarily the way that will produce the most tricks. Experts frequently use safety plays to insure their contracts and pay the insurance premium with an overtrick.

South wins the heart lead with his ace and plays his king of spades. He does this to guard against the chance that West will hold all three missing trumps. Since he does not hold the 10 he cannot guard against three trumps in the East hand.

When both opponents follow South can play a second trump and go after diamonds. If he picks up the queen he will be able to discard his losing heart and make an overtrick. On the other hand if he goes wrong with the queen the opponents will also make a heart trick and he will be one down.

There is a much better play for the slam at his disposal. He must go through a process known as "stripping the hand." He leads his jack of clubs. dummy's ace at trick three. Then he ruffs a club plays a trump to dummy's ace, ruffs dummy's last club and leads his four of hearts. Either opponent can win this trick. A heart or club lead will allow South to ruff in dummy and discard a diamond from his hand. A diamond lead will automatically take care of the problem of locating the queen.

Of course, this safety play would fail if the second club trump were ruffed but playing against an 8-1 club break is a far better chance than trying to locate a missing queen.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TELEPHONE TABOO: (Q) Could you please tell me what's so horrible about a girl calling up a boy she's practically grown up with.

I've known all of my brother's boy friends closely practically all our lives. When I have nothing to do or want to ask a question, I call one of them up. They don't see anything wrong with it. But my mother hears me, she gets mad and tells me to get off the phone.

If I were just a girl wanting to call up guys looking for dates I'd understand why she's mad, but it's not that way at all.—The Girl From Boston.

(A) In our life the way it looks is often as important as the way it is.

And there comes a day for all of us girls. That is the day it becomes preferable for males to call females and for females not to call males. This usually comes in the teen years, when boys begin to look at girls and vice versa.

The male is supposed to do the pursuing. The female is supposed to be pursued. The female must be careful not to look as if she's chasing boys.

In your case you're not. But your mother doesn't want anybody to get the mistaken idea that you are. She is wise, and if I were you I'd stop calling your brother's friends on the phone, no matter how well you know them.

FOR A PARTY: (Q) There's this party coming up, and I'd like to know if Nehru suits are out of style.—Blaine in Ohio.

(A) Nehru jackets are not so groovy as they were last season. But they are not completely out. So wear your Nehru and have fun.

Fad fashions for boys stay in longer than they do for girls. This may be because boys are more practical about wearing things longer once they've paid good money for them.

'Year of the Grotesque'

NEW YORK (AP) — One may not agree with the conclusions drawn by Theodore H. White in "The Making of the President: 1968," but they gave the CBS program Tuesday night a point of view and jumping-off place in an effort to give some shape and form to a jumble of events.

White, writer and political analyst, opened the program by expressing belief that somewhere among the "lunatic events" of the election year—riots, resistance, assassination and an unpopular distant war—"the old politics died." In electing Richard M. Nixon by a narrow popular vote, he maintained, the American electorate "violently rejected the past, yet it gave no clear mandate for the future."

Based on White's book of the same name, the television program suffered primarily because there was just too much material to cram into 90 minutes. While, in White's view, "television colored and shaped every move" of the campaigning, there was not enough revealing, fresh film and tape to illustrate the program's well written text. The program was at its best when it used bits of interviews, informal shots, to summarize trends, moods or attitudes. It had a tendency to linger over long on the more familiar scenes—the shocked partisans when Robert F. Kennedy was shot, the battles of police and young demonstrators at Chicago, the platform speeches. Many aspects of the campaign defied the camera, particularly the explanations of political tactics. Thus White's smooth script, narrated by Joseph Campanella and occasionally by White, himself was most helpful. White's reactions to the candid dates and his descriptions were particularly interesting. Nixon—"Shy and inward-turning, he nonetheless has cut his mark upon the past as a bitter partisan." Kennedy—"Wistful and pugnacious, haunted by past tragedy yet echoing tomorrow's hopes." McCarthy—"Graceful, lean and easy, his cool, clean style breaks totally with the rhetoric of the past."

What seems in retrospect to have been a tangle of events took on, during the program, some sort of order and even sense. It also impressed the viewer with the incredible trauma of 12 months—White called it "the year of the grotesque."

Recommended tonight: "Lena Horne Show," NBC 10-11 EDT, special music and comedy special with David Jansen and O. C. Smith as guest stars.

Violent, Torrid Birth Pains

NASA on the Moon Rocks, Dust

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The moon went through violent and torrid pains of birth and early infancy about the same time as the earth, but then it died and became "a very quiet, peaceful place," scientists at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory believe.

This conclusion, based on examinations of rocks and dust returned to earth by Apollo 11, was revealed in interviews as the scientists prepared to re- Friday to other scientists for further study.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will officially announce its findings on the moon rock at a Washington news conference Monday.

Here are the key things scientists at the Manned Space Center say they have learned from Apollo 11.

—There is no evidence there is life on the moon.

—Exhaustive tests exposing the lunar material to earthly life forms—plants, fish, mice, birds and, accidentally, man himself—produced no evidence of moon pathogens or germs existing in the soil. Nor has the soil been shown to have a toxic effect on earth creatures.

—Examination of the rocks and dust show the moon to have been molten about the same time as the earth, about three billion years ago.

—The moon heated up after its formation, as did the earth, and was a glob of molten rock. But while the earth continued to evolve and bring forth life, the moon—after 500 million years—in effect died.

The Apollo 11 mission failed to still the hot debate among scientists about the origin of the moon.

Before the flight there were three theories: the moon was thrown into orbit from the Pacific Ocean area of the earth; it is a sister planet formed at the same time and in the same manner as the earth; it was formed elsewhere in the solar system and became a captive of the earth's gravitational field.

Examination of the Apollo 11 samples failed to confirm or contradict any of the theories. Studies of the rocks gave no promise of any immediate economic benefit for mankind, and no indication of life on the moon.

Organic matter, which can come from a life form, was measured at from dead zero to one part per million in the Apollo 11 samples, a scientist said. There is some question that even this minute amount may have come from the handling of the rocks and not from the moon.

Scientists were surprised at the number of meteorites constantly sprinkling the surface of the moon. The frequency of these hits was larger than expected, but no conclusions have been drawn as yet.

Dr. Robin Brett, a member of the preliminary examination team of scientists at the NASA lab, said the top surfaces of the rocks were also hit by "whopping great does of solar wind," the radiation boiled away from the sun.

Dr. Oliver Schaeffer of the State University of New York at Stony Brook used an atomic dating device to establish the age of the rocks.

This system gives the approximate date that the rocks crystallized from the molten state. Schaeffer put the date at from 2.3 to 3.7 billion years ago, which is about the same as the oldest rocks measured on earth.

The rocks from Tranquility Base are like nothing ever examined on earth. They contain many of the elements with high boiling points, such as titanium, zirconium and chromium, and very little of the elements with low boiling points, such as lead, potassium and sodium.

This gives you a rock that's unlike any meteorites, unlike any earth rock of igneous origin," said Brett. It's just a very oddball type of rock. We don't really understand how it formed at all.

Brett and the other members of the team have pieced together this story of the moon:

—The moon is believed to have been formed 4.5 billion years ago at the same time as the earth and the rest of the solar system.

—During the next 500 million years, just a short period in geological time, the moon heated up and became molten. It then cooled, with the final volcanic activity ending between 2.3 billion and 3.7 billion years ago. The moon became a lifeless tombstone, frozen at an early age in its development and preserved.

—During the brief period of activity, something hitting the moon formed the vast flat plains which early moon mappers called "mares" or seas. These are the areas which appear darkest to man gazing at the moon from earth.

Check Time in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The State of Alaska opens bids today on what it hopes will be $1 billion in leases on part of its vast new arctic oil fields.

Gov. Keith Miller declared, "We won't take a nickel less than the value we have set."

Representatives of the world's major oil companies jammed oilstruck Anchorage for the biggest lease sale in history.

By nightfall the high bidders will be known and a chartered jet will be flying to New York with checks from the winning oil companies. Most of the companies will draw checks on New York banks.

The oilmen assemble in a 659-seat municipal auditorium at 7 a.m. Alaska Daylight Time. (Noon EDT) to hand in their sealed bids. The bidding closes an hour later, and state officials said it may be seven hours before the tabulation is completed.

The Republican governor reminded Alaskans in a statewide broadcast Tuesday night that the state has set "floor bids" on each of the 179 tracts up for lease. "Floor bids" are confidential figures on how much the state considers each lease to be worth. Alaska won't sell the leases for less, Miller said.

Under state law, each of the 450,858 acres on the block must go for $1 per acre for 10 years. But the law doesn't prevent the state from collecting "bonus bids" from the oil companies on each acre. Thus, a firm might bid $1 per acre and throw in a bonus of several thousand dollars per acre.

The governor also noted that Alaska is leasing only a third of the land available for oil production on the North Slope, where one of the world's richest petroleum deposits was discovered a year ago. The rest of the land probably will be leased later.

The street scene in Anchorage Tuesday night was reminiscent of gold rush days. Tight-lipped oil tycoons and their bankers in pin-striped suits mingled with roustabouts just back from the oil fields, their pockets bulging with money after a month's work.

Last Day of Truce -- Enemy Invades Base

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops began the last day of their 72-hour cease-fire in honor of Ho Chi Minh by invading a U.S. Marine base near Da Nang, military spokesmen said today.

Eight North Vietnamese soldiers broke through barbed wire barricades around the Marine Corps storage facility four miles west of the northern coastal city shortly after 1 a.m. today but were driven out, spokesmen said.

Communiques reported satchel charges planted by the commandos caused light damage. One Communist was captured and one Marine wounded in the fighting, spokesmen said.

Elsewhere, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong groundfire downed three American helicopters. But fighting generally was light as American forces tacitly observed the cease-fire, scheduled to end at 1 a.m. Thursday (1 p.m. EDT today).

A U.S. Command spokesman said Communist activity had been "still of a relatively low level in comparison to enemy activity prior to the enemy's announced cease-fire."

Communist groundfire Tuesday downed three U.S. helicopters, two near the Cambodian border and a third near the northern coast, spokesmen said. Crews from the first two, hit near Song Be, 85 miles northeast of Saigon and 10 miles from the Cambodian border, escaped uninjured.

But two Americans aboard the third, a light observation chopper on a mission near Bong Son, 180 miles northeast of Saigon, were killed.

American communiques reported Communist forces carried out four shelling attacks overnight, two of which caused casualties or damage. This was down from nine in the previous 24-hour period and 35 on the day before the cease-fire began.

South Vietnamese officials said that government troops had killed 310 Communist soldiers, captured 34 and that there had been 83 "returnees" under the open arms policy of welcoming deserters since the start of the truce.

In the light fighting that was reported, American infantrymen and Marines fought seven battles Tuesday with Viet Cong or North Vietnamese soldiers in South Vietnam's northern quarter and Central Highlands.

The actions killed 29 Communist troops and left two Americans dead and seven wounded, spokesmen said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said 34 Communist-initiated incidents since the start of the cease-fire had killed 27 South Vietnamese soldiers and wounded 51 others.
